—A strike for higher wages by a force of three delivery boys employed by M. O'Keefe, a grocer at 337 Watertown street, Nonantum, and the subsequent filling of their places by three Italian lads caused several lively mixups in that district Monday afternoon and evening. The striking boys wanted a raise of 50 cents a week, which it was said was refused. After they had been out but a short time three Italian boys took their places. Whenever the latter started out with push carts to deliver groceries they were pelted with eggs and stale vegetables by boys sympathizing with the striking youngsters.

Nominated for District Attorney

Stubborn Middlesex Republicans hold all night convention

The Republican delegates to the Middlesex district attorney convention last Tuesday broke the record for stubborn balloting and length of continuous session for the county. The convention followed the regular county convention in Institute Hall East Cambridge, at which County Commissioner Francis Bigelow of Natick and Sheriff John R. Fairbairn were unanimously renominated.

There were five candidates for the nomination of district attorney, Representative John J. Higgins of Somerville, who was nominated on the 24th ballot, assistant district attorney Arnold Scott of Newton, Melvin M. Johnson of Waltham, James G. Hill of Lowell and Nelson P. Brown of Everett. Mr. Scott was nominated by the Hon. Fred W. Dalling of Cambridge. Actual balloting began about noon on Tuesday, and barring a short recess for lunch after the first ballot was continued until six o'clock Wednesday morning. The first ballot gave Higgins 111, Scott 92, Johnson 82, Hill 66 and Brown 38, and these figures were substantially the same for each of the succeeding ballots until the 15th when a few swings were taken by the unpledged and Brown delegates. Each ballot took from thirty to forty minutes and the delegates found it wearisome work waiting first for their turn to vote and then for the announcement of the result, followed by a call for another ballot and the dreary voice from the platform of "Action 2" as the roll was begun once more.

There were some interesting incidents at the convention. Two Brown delegates were given an automobile ride after the first ballot by some Higgins men and marooned in the outskirts of Boston, losing several hours in returning to East Cambridge by trolley. As the evening progressed the delegates slipped away leaving their credentials in the hands of the various managers. One of these gentlemen induced two men outside the hall to come in and vote for his man on some Newton credentials. After getting in line the new comers caused considerable consternation by offering their credentials for sale at $10 each. The matter was promptly closed however. Another interruption ensued when a man voting on a North Reading credential was stopped by Mr. Robert Luce, the champion ballot reformer. Efforts to induce men from Reading to identify the bearer of the credential were futile and the man voted.

The convention was noisy. The Somerville men approached the ballot box with shouts for Higgins and after each ballot the various factions cheered their several candidates again and again. Mr. Charles E. Hatfield of Newton was chairman of the ballot committee and stuck to his task in a most creditable manner. Mr. Higgins received the nomination on the 24th ballot having 186 votes, to 91 for Johnson, 56 for Scott, and 3 for Hill.

The Newton men who stuck to the game thruout the session were Representatives Garcelon and Bishop, Alderman Weston, Chas. E. Hatfield, A. F. Brewer and Candidate Scott.

Burdett College of Business and Short-hand, 18 Boylston St., Boston, will begin its Night School on next Monday evening, October 7. President Burdett's plan of offering courses in Bookkeeping, Arithmetic and Penmanship or in Short-hand and Typewriting at the low cost of $15. tuition for the entire six months' course is one that from year to year proves a blessing to hundreds of ambitious young men and women in Boston and vicinity. The regular monthly tuition for three nights a week is $5, but this special offer reduces the cost to $2.50 per month. The demand for seats this year is very large and students who wish to enroll should notify the secretary of the college at once.

Street Railway Notes

In response to the petition of the Needham Board of Trade, complaining about fares on the Newton & Boston Street Railway, the Railroad Commission have issued a finding in which it says:

"The practice upon our street railways of charging five-cent fares is not an example of what is known as the zone system of tolls and therefore, as held in a former decision, fare limits ought not to be governed wholly by distance, but should have reasonable reference to the communities which are served. The Newton & Boston street railway company with its proposed changes in route of cars ought to reestablish fare limits under this principle. Such change would benefit many patrons even though the management could not be asked to extend it to meet the demands of all who seek a five-cent fare."

The Board advises the Needham men to arrange a conference with the railway people to secure such benefits as may be obtained under this ruling.

Trains Delayed

Frightened by two rapidly approaching trains two Italian laborers dropped a rail across tracks of the main line of the Boston & Albany division of the New York Central railroad east of Riverside about 7:30 Saturday morning, resulting in the derailing of both locomotives. One was attached to a passenger train, but fortunately no one was seriously injured.

Throughout the forenoon local and through trains coming east from west of Riverside were seriously delayed. Hundreds of passengers left trains at Riverside and travelled the rest of the way to Boston by electric.

Section hands began repairing one of the outward tracks on the main line near Riverside that morning. They had been at work but a short time when two Italians started to carry a heavy steel rail across from near the Riverside station. Train 66, leaving Milford at 6:25, in charge of Conductor William Holmes, and heavily loaded with passengers, was running east bound on track 4. The train was express from Wellesley Farms to Auburndale and was proceeding at a fast speed. Running east bound on track 2 was the Milford local freight, known among railroad men as the "rawhide freight," and it was speeding along about abreast of the passenger train.

The Italians were in the path of the passenger train when the engineer whistled for them to get off the track. Becoming frightened they hesitated until it appeared they surely would be run down when one of their companions yelled to them to drop the rail on the outward tracks. The Italians probably misunderstood the order and dropped the rail in the path of the passenger train.

The locomotive hit the rail with a crash, sending it flying to the left and derailing the locomotive which plowed along between the tracks for a distance of about 50 feet. The passengers were startled at the sudden stop, and although many were thrown about no one was seriously injured. The engineer and fireman were thrown against the cab, but escaped with cuts and bruises.

The loose rail took a course a few feet above ground directly toward the locomotive of the freight. Striking the driving wheels with considerable force it sent both driving wheels of the right side back under the firebox, also derailing that locomotive. Fortunately the fireman and engineer of the freight, as well as the conductor and brakeman, escaped with nothing more serious than a bad shaking up and a few bruises.

Three of the four tracks of the main line were out of commission for several hours. Wrecking crews were set at work as quickly as possible and a temporary track was laid. Supt. Morrison and a number of officials of the road stationed in Boston came out to Riverside to view the wreck.

The immediate effect of the accident was to make the train due at Boston at 8:47 two hours and five minutes late; the 10:15 train one hour late, and the 10:40 train one hour and 50 minutes late. The train due to reach Boston at 11:40 was on time. Meanwhile most of the local trains were thrown off their schedules, and in the various stations on the main line through this city business men and other persons anxious to reach Boston were delayed. After waiting from one to two hours many would-be passengers gave up effort to get a train to Boston and took to the electric. Immediately after the wreck occurred passengers from the Milford train hurried through fields and byways to catch electric cars running inward from Auburndale. The Newton street railway company put on extra cars to accommodate the delayed passengers.

The accident, coming at a time when the criticism of the road is sharp, made the officials at the South station and in other places reluctant to talk. The information given out by the railroad people was meagre and unsatisfactory.

Lyons-Norris

The wedding of Miss Margaret A. Norris of Nonantum and John J. Lyons of Worcester, who has for some time been a petty officer on one of the ships of Admiral Evans' fleet, were married Tuesday evening at the parochial residence of the church of Our Lady by Rev. James F. Kelley, assistant pastor.

Miss Catherine A. Norris, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Patrick J. Lyons, brother of the groom, was best man.

When the groom applied for a marriage license in Worcester, it is stated, he said that it was the general impression among the men of the squadron commanded by Admiral Evans that the Pacific cruise which is soon to begin will last four years and that after a week he did not expect to see his bride again for that length of time. Mr. Lyons said Tuesday evening, however, that he had decided to retire from a sea going life and settle in his new home at 12 Allison street, Nonantum, where a celebration of the wedding was held that evening.

Real Estate

Henry H. Read has leased the following Newton Centre houses the past week No. 31 Ripley street to Mr. James Thorne; No. 2 Newbury Terrace belonging to Mr. I. W. Munroe to Mr. Geo. C. Shlad.

Hospital Aid Association

The quarterly meeting of the Newton Hospital Catholic Aid Society was held in Denison hall, Newtonville, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The society will give a whist and dancing party in Bray hall, Newton Centre, Friday evening, October 25, the proceeds to be devoted to the charity work of the society. Whist will be played from 8 to 10.30 and dancing will be from 8 to 12.

Lasell Notes

The Seniors elected their officers on Friday evening, as follows: Pres., Miss Leona Benner of Wapokoneta, O. Vice-Pres., Miss Charlotte Ryder, of Bangor, Me.

Treas., Miss Madeleine Lovitt, of Yarmouth, N. S. Sec., Miss Lela Goodall of Sanford, Me. The night before the old girls gave their usual serenade to the new, marching to the various halls and cottages, singing Lasell songs and giving Lasell cheers. The new girls responded very cleverly.

The subject for Leon H. Vincent's third lecture at Lasell on Thursday evening, October 10th, at 7.45 is "Macaulay as a Converser and a Historian."

Among the Lasell pupils there are 2 from Japan, 1 from Shahjahanpore, India, 1 from Nome, Alaska, 2 from Mexico, 6 from California, 3 from Manitoba, and others from Nova Scotia, Montana, Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Oklahoma, etc., up to 35 states and countries, 46 from the New England states; 61 from the middle, etc., etc.

Police Paragraphs

As Simon Casson, a tailor, was returning home from work about 9 o'clock one night last week, two young men stepped up and hit him a clip in the back with a newspaper and knocked his hat off, cracking the rim.

Saturday morning patrolman McNeill had Edward Leary in court on a charge of committing the assault.

"How much did you pay for the hat?" asked Judge Kennedy after Casson had told the story of the assault. "Two dollars and a half."

"How long ago did you buy it?"

"A month ago."

"Give Mr. Casson $2.50 for a new hat" said the court. Leary paid.

"Now you can also pay a fine of $6," said Judge Kennedy.

The house of Ivan B. Cookson, a carpenter living on Murray road, West Newton, was the scene of a lively incident at 12.30 Saturday morning when police arrested a young woman who had gone into a bedroom and is said to have asserted she had been hired as Mr. Cookson's housekeeper at $3 a week. When patrolman David Nagle and Joseph Seaver got into the bed room they found a commode afire from an overturned lamp. The blaze was a lively one and it required a few minutes' hard work to extinguish it. They then arrested a woman giving the name of Annie O'Leary, 28 years old, who said she lived in South Boston and was employed as a domestic. In court that morning she was convicted of drunkenness and sent to the house of correction for 60 days.

After the lamp had been overturned the O'Leary woman had apparently tried to save the household effects. A trunk and a large amount of clothing had been thrown out of the bedroom into the yard. Cookson was not in the house when the police arrived.

New Synagogue

About 50 of the Jewish residents of this city held a meeting at Nonantum Monday evening and subscribed $150 toward building the first synagogue in this city.

Abram Schrier, who made application to City Clerk Kingsbury today for a permit to erect the building, presided and plans for a building were enthusiastically discussed. It was announced that no site has yet been selected, although there are several under consideration. The society will be known as the congregation Anshai Shepherd. Heretofore the nearest synagogue for the Jewish residents of this city has been Boston.

Mrs. Rachel A. Stevenson

Mrs. Rachel A. Stevenson, a former well-known missionary in India for many years, died Monday at the Newton hospital at the age of ninety-three years. Mrs. Stevenson in 1855 went to India with her husband, the late Rev. E. A. Stevenson, and for ten years they labored successfully there. After returning to this country Mr. Stevenson became an instructor in the Andes Institute in Andes, N. Y. He died in 1877. Mrs. Stevenson afterward lived in Boston, but for some years had made her home in Newtonville.

Funeral services were held from the residence of Mr. Herbert S. Kempton on Birch Hill road, Newtonville, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. John Goddard and Rev. Mr. McLennan. The burial was in Newton Cemetery.

Crosby's Restaurant, 19 School street, Boston, is a good place to dine if

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The prescription department in our store is always watched over by a registered pharmacist; a doctor's prescriptions are always filled exactly according to the way he intended they should be filled.

The nomination of Mr. Charles S. Dennison as the Republican candidate for senator in this district brings into the state service a trained and broad minded business man, whose influence on the floor and in the committee room cannot fail to benefit the Commonwealth. In accepting this nomination, Mr. Dennison sacrifices his personal interests and neglects a large business in order to render his full duty to the public. His election in a strong Republican district should follow as a matter of course, but we earnestly hope that the Republicans of this district and particularly, of the city of Newton, will show their appreciation of Mr. Dennison's act by rolling up a large and most substantial majority at the polls.

The declination of Mr. William M. Flanders to serve as a member of the Republican state committee from this senatorial district is a distinct loss to the party. Mr. Flanders has undoubtedly done more to rehabilitate the state committee into the good graces of the Republican party than any other one man. He has given generously of his time, his labor and his means to further the best interests of the Commonwealth and his withdrawal will cause deep and sincere regret.

Mr. Arnold Scott, a candidate for the Republican nomination for district attorney this week, came out of that memorable contest with greatly increased respect of his opponents and the warmest regards of his friends. His campaign was characterized by the straightforward, honorable methods which Newton expects of her candidates.

We hope that the B. & A. management will not be blamed for the dropping of a rail by Italian laborers on the track and the consequent delay of morning trains to Boston. The Company has enough sins to answer for in train service without the bearing those of an unaccountable nature.

The obstinacy of the Middlesex county Republicans in the selection of a candidate for district attorney is another snag to show that the direct nomination principle cannot be applied too soon to all elective offices.

Let us all hold our breath until the new management of the "Boston and Almost" has a chance to get busy. It doesn't seem possible that it can be any worse than the Van Etten regime.

The Delphic utterance of the railroad commissioners in the protest of Needham against a ten cent fare will hardly meet the approval of that country township.

The nomination of Mr. Walter S. Glidden of Somerville as a candidate for councillor is a disgrace to the Republican party of the entire state.

Card of Acknowledgment

Mrs. George F. Richardson, of Newton Lower Falls, offers heartfelt acknowledgment to the host of friends who, by so many love tokens during the illness of her husband, Conductor George F. Richardson, and by such beautiful floral and sympathetic tributes at his funeral, have ministered great comfort in her affliction.

Mrs. George F. Richardson.
Oct. 2, '07.

Runaway

A runaway accident in which several pedestrians narrowly escaped being run down and which resulted in the instant death of a horse occurred in this city last Friday afternoon.

While William Lynch, the driver, was feeding a pair of horses attached to a heavy wagon owned by Charles Whittemore of South Natick on Beacon street near Neholm road, Waban, shortly after 4, the horses became frightened and ran away. They ran through Beacon street to Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, where one of the horses struck an electric light pole and was instantly killed. The animal was removed to the Brighton abattoir. The wagon was only slightly damaged.

MR. CHARLES S. DENNISON
Republican Nominee for Senate.

Base Ball

Owing to the rainy weather the game scheduled to be played last Saturday, between the Stanley's and the Y. M. C. A. was called off, and the championship of Newton remains unsettled.

The Y. M. C. A. team has had a fairly successful season, altho not winning as many games as last year. Owing to the fact that the summer vacations of several of the players came at about the same time, the team was seriously crippled and several games were lost on this account. Jack Bartley, the catcher was the only regular player who took part in all the games played, 19 in all.

In batting the three highest men were Hanson, 380 per cent, LaRose, 325 per cent and Chase, 311 per cent. In fielding the following men led, Bartley, 950 per cent, Stanton, 936 per cent and Chase 880 per cent.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

"Gym" classes were resumed on Monday afternoon Sept. 29th, when about 25 enthusiastic boys lined up in the Prep and Intermediate class. The Juniors opened their season on Tuesday afternoon and the Seniors had a good team out on the same evening.

Mr. Joseph L. Carle of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., has been tendered the position of Physical Director of the Newton Association to succeed Mr. LaRose who goes to take charge of the physical work in one of the Associations in the canal zone, Panama.

Mr. Carle has been interested in gymnasium work for 12 years and for the past three years has had a splendid training in the Poughkeepsie Y. M. C. A. and the Summer Institute at Silver Bay. He comes with the best of recommendations from his home Association and from men prominent in Association work. He will begin work next Thursday evening.

On next Tuesday evening at 8 P. M. Capt. Seaholm and members of the St. James Fencing Club will give a fencing exhibition in the Newton Gymnasium. If six men or boys wish to get fencing instruction a class will be formed.

The Board of Directors meet next Monday evening at eight o'clock in the parlors of the Association. This is the regular monthly meeting and a full attendance is desired.

New members are joining every day. Are you a member of this great brotherhood?

Artificial Ice

To the Editor of The GRAPHIC:

Sufferer in Graphic of 20th ultimo sounds reasonable wherein he calls for an artificial ice plant for the Newtons. It is the purest of ice free from fish, leaves, or human or animal matter. Now why not our City Authorities having the water and the clerical force, build up apparatus to make the ice manufacture an experiment in municipal economy? an experiment in municipal integrity and efficiency? Begin on an ice plant and induce citizens to subscribe for stock if best to let any one step in rear of any Newton ice cart when fairly full, and do the same at a Boston ice cart and compare the meanness of the ice we get against the Hub. Outside of Longfellow-Spring reservoir do the Newtons get simple just ice?

High School Notes

In the first game of the season the football team defeated Needham 12 to 0 on Tuesday. The visitors were light and showed lack of practice, but the score should have been much higher than it was. Allen and O'Neil played the star game. Donahue, last year's quarterback did the punting.

Robert Porter formerly of the class of 1908 is playing fullback on the Phillips Andover Academy football team.

The new tennis courts on the Clafin estate are very nearly completed.

At a meeting of the senior class on Wednesday in the Assembly Hall the following officers were elected for the year; President, Clarence Stewart; vice president, Dorothy Whitley; treasurer, Charles Paul; secretary, Ethel Loring.

The football team plays Everett High on Saturday afternoon and a hard game is expected.

Cooking-Ranges

Mrs. Knight

Principal of Worcester Cooking School, says:

"The amount of cooking the Crawford is capable of turning out in a short time, and the small amount of fuel used, surprise me."

The Single Damper (patented); the Patented Dock-Ash Grates; the Cup-Joint Oven Flues; the Asbestos Oven Back, and the Reliable Oven Indicator are the reasons why; and no other ranges have them.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—Merriment will bubble at Keith's next week, for the bill arranged is noticeably strong in comedy features, among them being Peter F. Dailey and company, Stella Mayhew, Billee Taylor and company, Lew Bloom, Charles F. Semon, Paulton and Dooley, Salerno, Anderson and Goines and Willie Weston. In fact there is hardly an act on the whole list that is not a smile bringer. "Pete" Dailey will be seen in a condensed version of "The Press Agent", in which he has a part that fits his effervescent style to perfection. He is assisted by a company of twelve people, several of them pretty girls. Popular Stella Mayhew will return with a new act known as "Stella Mayhew, Billee Taylor and company," in the brisk comedietta "It Happened in Utah". It gives Miss Mayhew a chance to do several of her famous character songs. Mr. Taylor sings a couple of new ballads of his own. He is the composer of "I guess I'll Have to Take the Train Back Home" and several other popular songs. Lew Bloom, "The Tramp of Tramps," as clever a delineator of the hobo as the stage has ever known and the first to play the character, has a number of new stories and parodies which he will deliver in his inimitable style. Charles F. Semon, "The Narrow Feller," rollick of all the musical monologues, Salerno, the great juggler who will close his engagement; Paulton and Dooley, in a very funny bicycle act, Anderson and Goines, two of the cleverest colored comedians in vaudeville, and Willie Weston, with stories and imitations will all cause their share of smiles. Beautiful and graceful Clara Ballerini, in a most attractive trapeze performance, Donnelly and Rotoli, pleasing vocalists, The Kalmos, novelty dancers, Milton and his trained dogs, The Walters, in a comedy sketch, and the Kinetograph will round out the bill.

Grand Opera House—With a plot that is full of action, with dialogue that is crisp and sparkling, with plenty of comedy furnished by comedians of recognized standing, with a bevy of show girls, who can sing as well as look pretty, A. H. Woods' latest and what is considered his best melodrama, "A Chorus Girl's Luck in New York," will be the attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House next week. As a scenic production the play is said to have few equals, and many decidedly elaborate stage settings will be shown, including the deck of a monster Atlantic liner, which is blown up and wrecked at sea. This scene is said to be the most realistic representation of a shipwreck ever seen in a theatrical performance. The wireless telegraph plays an important part in this scene, as it is through a wireless message that the revenue cutter hears of the catastrophe and responds in time to save a majority of passengers on the foundered vessel. The piece is described as a sensational musical-melodrama in four acts and fourteen scenes, telling a thrilling story of strong contemporaneous interest whose leading character is a youthful chorus girl who is beset by many dangers and temptations while trying to earn a living for herself and an invalid mother. There will be the usual matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Tremont Theatre—Each week that passes adds to the prestige and popularity of Advanced Vaudeville at the Tremont Theatre. Starting out with a fulfillment of every promise as to novelty and excellence of offerings, it has not only kept up to the standard, but the bills have grown better and stronger with the succeeding weeks. The people were graciously enthusiastic over the novelty at first; now that they really know what Advanced Vaudeville is, and that it is growing steadily better instead of beginning with a flourish then falling in merit, they are vastly more gracious and enthusiastic. It is a permanency, and pitched on the highest plane ever before known in America under the varieties standard. It is a factor well worth reckoning that patrons of Advanced Vaudeville see foreign and domestic stars and acts never before seen. Klaw & Erlanger do not send any threadbare "favorites", or fill in with half-way acts in order to make their bills complete. They have the material in plenty from which to pick bills containing nothing but head-liners, as the time that Advanced Vaudeville has been in existence has amply proved. Their acts imported from abroad are sent on tour for the first time in America; but it must also be taken in for important consideration that the pick of all American vaudeville is also enlisted under the Advanced Vaudeville banner, thus giving patrons the pick of the varieties stages of two continents. There are matinees every day at the Tremont Theatre, where the best seat in the house can be had for fifty cents.

Orpheum Theatre—A house packed with pleased is the surest sign of success. That has been the experience of the Orpheum Theatre since its opening because of the fact that the big house makes a practice of presenting the biggest shows. For the week of Oct. 7 another bill of supreme features and unique novelties has been selected from the wonderful resources of the United Booking Office, the biggest vaudeville booking agency in the world. The famous minstrel man Carroll Johnson, heading a big company of minstrel men in a singing and dancing sketch, which is presented with special stage settings, entitled "In Louisiana," is the big feature. The quaint melodies of the Southern ditty are given full sway in this act which is in reality a miniature minstrel show, with all the good qualities confined to twenty minutes. Gracie Emmett, the popular delineator of Irish characters will appear in her mirth provoking creation "Mrs. Murphy's Second Husband", supported by a company of comedians. The big favorites in Boston, Grant and Hoag, will appear in their singing and talking sketch "A Little of Everything", presenting a lot of new material. Zeno, Jordan and Zeno, a trio of extraordinary acrobats, and the Murray Sisters, "Just American Girls with American Songs", will be prominent among the entertainers. Others on the bill are DeWitt, Torrance and Burns in their beautiful act, "The Awakening of Toys"; Felix and Claire, two youngsters who have created a furore by their impersonations; the Carter, Taylor Co., and the Kinetograph.

"Yankeeland" Again

"Yankeeland," the two act comic opera by Messrs. Leverett Bentley and Henry T. Wade, produced so successfully less than two years ago at the Hunnewell clubhouse, is to be revived again early this season for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. Performances will be given at the Hunnewell clubhouse on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Nov. 12 and 13.

There will be some changes in the cast, yet those who made some of the big hits of the original show will be heard again. This year the cast is to include Mr. Ernest W. Wright, director of many Entertainment club plays, and Mr. Leverett Bentley. Both are well known among local amateurs and may be relied upon to furnish a good share of the fun. Among the features this year are two new songs which Messrs. Bentley and Wade have added to the score. They include an Indian chorus, which will have a picturesque setting and a melodious and catchy number for Smiling Slattery (Mr. Willard G. Harding) who will be assisted by the chorus. Further announcements will be forthcoming. Meanwhile reservations for tickets may be made at the Newton Y. M. C. A.

Boys Drowned

Losing their balance while fishing at the edge of Crystal Lake, Newton Center, Clayton Davis, aged 10, and Joseph Lane, aged 8, both of Newton Highlands, fell into the lake shortly after 5 Tuesday afternoon and were drowned. The body of the Davis boy was recovered half an hour after the accident, and that of the Lane boy was located an hour afterward.

With several companions the boys started fishing from the Newton Centre bank of the lake late in the afternoon. They climbed onto a boulder and had fished but a short time when both lost their balance and fell into water about six feet deep.

Clyde Davis, the 8-year old brother of Clayton Davis, was the only person in the vicinity at the time of the accident. He threw a fishing rod out to the companions. One of them grasped the rod but sank before the Davis boy could pull him ashore.

The Davis boy then picked up his brother's cap and ran up the railroad tracks to Newton Highlands, a distance of nearly a mile. He told his father, Irving Davis, a barber living at 1174 Walnut street, of the drowning. With several neighbors Mr. Davis hurried back to the lake, but arrived too late to be of any assistance in saving the boys.

The Lane boy was a son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Lane of 1173 Walnut street, Newton Highlands, whose home is across the street from that of the Davis' boy's parents. He is one of a family of four children. The Lane family had lived in Newton Highlands about a year and a half.

The police recovered the bodies after dragging the edge of the lake. After being viewed by Medical Examiner West they were taken to the undertaking rooms of Eugene W. Pratt, Newton Centre.

Frost-Southwick

A wedding was celebrated at 6 Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb T. Southwick of Wellesley, when their daughter, Miss Harriette L. Southwick, became the bride of Frederick A. Frost, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Frost of West Newton.

In the presence of many guests the ceremony was performed by Rev. Richard T. Loring, rector of St. John's church, Newtonville. The bride is well known in musical circles and for the past four years has been organist of Unity church, Natick. The groom is well known in West Newton and is a member of the Northgate club.

The bride was gowned in white silk made princess style with veil and carried bride roses. The veil was caught up with her diamond engagement ring. She wore a pair of stockings once owned by Harriet Beecher Stowe. Miss Bessie B. Parker of Wellesley was maid of honor, and she was gowned in light blue silk muslin trimmed with satin ribbon and mechanical lace.

The best man was Charles F. Bowers of Newton. The ushers were Joseph W. Bergonzoni of Wellesley and G. Howard Frost of West Newton, the latter a brother of the groom. The wedding march was played by Edward W. Shattuck of Wellesley Hills.

The dwelling was artistically decorated with palms, cut flowers and vines. Guests were present from Owensboro, Ky., Newburg, N. Y., Salem, Haverhill, Boston, Ipswich, Newton, Cambridge and Natick. At a reception which followed the couple were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Caleb T. Southwick and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Frost.

They received many handsome gifts. Prominent among them were a marine water color painting from the office of Roger W. Babson, Wellesley Hills, where the bride had been employed; a set of silver from Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Day, West Newton; a vase from the ladies' degree staff of Wellesley grange 166, P. of H., of which the bride had been leader, and a purse of gold from the other grange members. Other gifts included cut glass, silver, linen, china, dining set and dining table and chairs. After a trip Mr. and Mrs. Frost will reside at 170 Fuller street, West Newton.

Special Music

The program of the special musical service to be held at the Methodist Episcopal church, Newtonville, Sunday evening at 7:30, includes such artists as Mrs. Alice Huston Stevens of Boston, soprano, who has just returned from extensive studies with the best Italian masters, Miss Olive L. Whitely of Boston, violinist; Miss Mary Williams of Boston, contralto; Mr. George Pratt Maxim of Boston, organist.

The program is as follows: Organ Prelude—"Grand Chorus", Gailmant. Soprano Solo—"Like as the Heart Desires", Francis Allitsen. Mrs. Stevens. Violin Solo—"Salut D'Amour", Edward Elgar.

Miss Whiteley. Duett—"The Lord is my Shepherd", Henry Smart. Mrs. Stevens and Miss Williams. Offertory Selection—"Berceuse", Walter Spinney.

Mr. Maxim. Contralto Solo—"The Day is Ended", J. C. Bartlett. Miss Williams. Organ Postlude—"March from Aida", Verdi-Shelley.

Peculiar Tieup on B. & A.

A peculiar tieup occurred on the main line of the Boston & Albany railroad Monday night which caused a delay to local and through trains during the greater part of the evening.

A locomotive attached to a heavy inbound freight train stalled just west of the Center place bridge about 9 o'clock.

The locomotive ran short of fuel and water and all efforts to again get up steam were unsuccessful.

After about an hour and a half a spare locomotive was secured from Boston and the train was finally gotten under way. Meanwhile inward local trains were shifted from track 4 to track 2, which is usually used by the through express trains.

—A runaway horse caused considerable excitement on Beacon street last week Friday, and for a few moments endangered the lives of several school children. The animal, the property of Charles Whittemore of Natick, became frightened and finally dashed into a telegraph pole, and was so badly injured that it had to be shot.

—Mrs. J. C. Buffum, the entrant from the local tennis club in the Woman's annual tournament at Longwood, was defeated in doubles Wednesday, after an excellent and closely contested match in which, as a Boston paper put it, the Waban player put up the best game of the four, but her excellent playing was unable to overcome the teamwork of her opponents. The score was 7-9, 6-4, 6-2.

—The Waban Athletic Club is expected to put a fast and well balanced eleven on the field this season and the boys are practicing hard for the first game next week. A stiff and long schedule is being arranged and some good contests are in prospect. Captain Isola is being aided by the clubs coach, Robinson, and by Mr. Abbot athletic instructor at the Waban school. Among the candidates are several Newton High players past and present.

Correspondence

Citizens of Newton you vote that there shall be no intoxicating liquors sold in Newton, and then you allow a great big Whiskey sign right in a conspicuous place in the city.

I fail to see the consistency. From One of the People.

Politics

Congressman Weeks, Councillor Jones and Representative Canoe were speakers at the meeting of the Watertown Republican club Wednesday evening.

Hon. Seward W. Jones was renominated this afternoon for the Governor's council from the sixth district at a convention held at Wesleyan hall, Boston. Congressman John W. Weeks made the nominating speech and Councillor Jones entertained the delegates at lunch after the convention.

An interesting situation exists in the delegation to the democratic state convention in this city. Ward 7 entitled to one delegate cast a tie vote for William E. Hylands and Timothy D. Leonard. The law provides that the remainder of the delegation in such cases shall fill the vacancy. The delegation from Newton is a tie between Whitney and Bartlett and therefore cannot reach a conclusion and the matter may come before the state convention itself in consequence.

Representative W. F. Garcelon, as chairman of the Republican committee for this Councillor district will have charge of the strenuous (?) campaign which Councillor Jones must wage in order to be re-elected.

Mr. Solon W. Bingham of Beacon street, Newton Centre, has been nominated for secretary of state by the Prohibition party.

The democratic convention of this senatorial district will be held next Thursday evening at Middlesex hall, Natick. Senator James H. Vahey of Watertown will be the nominee.

Candidate for Alderman

Mr. George W. Pratt of Gibbs street, Newton Centre, who has consented to be a candidate for the board of aldermen from ward six to succeed Alderman Bowen, who retires this fall, is a native and life long resident of Newton. A graduate of the Newton schools, he entered Harvard and received his degree in 1902. He then entered the stationer's business with his father in the firm of J. L. Fairbanks & Co. He has been actively identified with the interests of Newton Centre for some years, serving as secretary of the Improvement Society for the past three years, and doing excellent work on its various committees. He has also been a member of the Republican ward and city committee for the past three years. He is a member of the Newton Centre Squash Tennis Club, the Brae Burn Country Club and is quite prominent in athletics. Mr. Pratt has the support of many of the prominent citizens of the ward and will undoubtedly poll a large vote at the November primaries.

—The Lower Falls M. E. church observes Rally Sunday next Sabbath. Special exercises in the Sunday school session. Parents and friends welcome. Dr. Marshall L. Perrin delivers an address at 7 p. m. service.

—The 95th anniversary of the founding of St. Mary's Episcopal church was appropriately observed two days this week. On Sunday Rev. Thomas L. Cole, the rector, preached a sermon in which he traced the founding and early history of the church. On Tuesday evening an anniversary social was held in the parish house, when the entertainment consisted of musical and literary numbers and refreshments.

—An exciting incident occurred here Saturday afternoon, when Violet Dennis, a 10-year old Lower Falls girl, was held up by three runaway boys and relieved of a pocketbook containing 55 cents. She was held up on Washington street near her home, and the boys after extracting the money returned the purse. The incident was seen from a distance by Patrolman Burnett of the Wellesley police force. After a chase he caught the boys and took them to the Wellesley police station. Later their parents came here and took the boys back to their homes in Boston.

Hearings were held on petitions of the Gas Light Co. for locations of poles on Albemarle road, for attachments on Woodward street and Brookside avenue, of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Montfort road, Centre st., Pleasant st. for poles on Grant avenue and Allerton road, of the Newton Street Railway Co. for alteration of location across Centre street bridge, for location for curve and new pole on Centre st. and for attachments on Crafts st. of Chas. A. Ferson to keep and sell gasoline off Washington st. of W. E. Tomlinson to sell denatured alcohol on Washington st. ward 3, of G. H. Bourne for removal of tree on Woodbine st. of V. A. Pluta for removal of tree on Rowe terrace, on taking land for sewer purposes in Hobart terrace and in Garden road, at which no one appeared.

At the hearing on the petition of W. H. Jones to locate a gas engine on Waverley avenue, Mr. Jones said: This application is only for the next four or five months for temporary work. The engine is located in a large building 350 feet long, it is 175 feet from the next house, 200 feet from Mrs. Gay's, 250 feet from Mr. Bowers, 223 feet from Mr. Moore's. The exhaust is conducted into a barrel under the ground and it is almost impossible to hear it, save a slight click. The engine is used for experimental purposes, for driving small motors for developing some mechanical work on speedometers for motor vehicles.

Mr. A. C. Mudge: The noise is very easily heard, in a way this is a small machine shop. It is a growing business, you can see a large advertisement of it on the sign board going in town, it is a mechanical business and all the residents strenuously object and everybody who saw the remonstrance wished to sign it. The sound is like the pounding of an anvil and all the sounds you hear in a machine shop, of course not as loud as a boiler shop. When we bought the land there some twenty-five years ago we were restricted in many ways. This engine is already in and has been in for some time. The remonstrance will cover all that can be said.

Mr. L. P. Bowers: This is strictly a residential neighborhood, and almost all own their own houses, and when they bought the land there were certain restrictions including that forbidding that any building should be used for any mechanical or manufacturing purposes. It has been a constant noise in the neighborhood all summer long, it has been an annoyance to the people when sitting on the piazzas all summer. It is evidently a growing business, there are men going back and forth to work there, and several people come around at night wanting to do business. I should object most strenuously to the license being granted.

Mr. Jones: This is the first time I have ever had any notification that it was disagreeable to anybody and if this is a fact that it is disagreeable I will withdraw the petition.

Mr. Bowers: I would like to state that we are a pretty neighborly people and we stand a good deal before we complain. We have great pride in our neighborhood, we have furnished three members of the City Government and one United States Congressman. If this petition did not come up we would not say anything about it until next summer, we would have allowed the thing to go on, but when the petition was filed we thought it was the time to object. We have no feeling in regard to Mr. Jones, but we want to keep the neighborhood up to the standard.

The remonstrance was then read. Mr. Jones: I do not think there is anything more to say, I wish to withdraw the petition. I do not wish to be unneighborly, if I had any complaint from anybody I should not have petitioned.

Mr. A. C. Mudge: I wish to thank the gentleman, I think that is characteristic of all the people in the neighborhood.

At the hearing on taking land for sewer in Bacon place Mr. Charles L. Bird, and Mr. Charles H. Noyes spoke briefly in favor of the sewer.

At the hearing on taking land for sewer in Thomas street Mr. F. J. Mague said: There is no necessity for this sewer. There are only two houses and they are served with two cesspools. One of the petitioners could very easily and cheaply cut across and enter the present sewer. The other one has a frontage of sixty feet with a total area of six thousand feet. On the other hand my mother and myself have a frontage of over two hundred feet, and we are served well with cesspools. That would make the people who would not be served have to pay over half of this sewer assessment.

At the hearings on construction of concrete sidewalks on Ballard, Ward and Summer street under the betterment act, Mr. George W. Jackson said these streets have no grade, consequently in rainy weather and in the winter the streets and sidewalks are in the same condition. Whenever a thaw comes puddles of water form overflowing the sidewalks, we try to take to the streets but in a winter like last winter it is absolutely impossible for us to get home comfortably. People have had friends call on them who said they would not call again till it had dried up and they have not done so. Members of my family and other families have been obliged to have a carriage call and take them across to take a car on Commonwealth Avenue to go in town and have had to take a carriage back. There is quite a little passing through there up to Centre street, so there is a necessity of building the sidewalk from one end of the street to the other. There are only two vacant lots on the street, one is owned by the Newton Savings Bank and their investment committee said they would not oppose it and the other is owned by Mrs. Hovey and the frontage is very slight. The rest of it is built upon, I think 1600 feet is the total length. People representing 1000 feet have signed the petition, and people representing 300 feet said they would not oppose it, that leaves only the people representing about 300 feet who might oppose it. There are four or five trees which stand on the sidewalk and with two of these trees the snow plough has to be turned into the gutter to make the path, consequently when the snow comes we have to take the street or the sidewalk on the other side. The residents of Ballard street are not rich enough to own horses or automobiles and we have to depend upon the sidewalks and with us this is a necessity to have safe and decent ways of getting to our homes.

Mr. Henry McGrady: This sidewalk is as good a gravel sidewalk as any man would wish to have. I have seen lots of streets in the winter time that you cannot cross. It cost something to put that gravel walk there, now if these parties want a street let them build it, if they are not satisfied with the gravel sidewalk let them pay for another sidewalk. I have lived there between thirty and forty years and am satisfied.

Mr. Patrick E. Linnehan: I agree with Mr. McGrady, the sidewalk is good enough. If there was a sidewalk I should think it would be on the other side where there is more travel, and no trees or anything to interfere and there is one third of the way concreted now. There are only a few people on Ballard street who walk up and down that way, all the others go on the other side of the street. A written protest from Margaret M. White was read.

Communications from Mayor Warren requesting certain transfers to add to the Sidewalk appropriation, requesting authorization to receive $1020 from the Newton Street Railway Co. to be expended in repairs of Paul street after removal of tracks, and transmitting the request of Commission on Early Records for $100 for copying same were referred, the street railway matter being subsequently granted.

The application of various Jewish residents for incorporation in order to erect a synagogue and the application of A. Yarechchi to erect a store on West street, were referred.

Notices were received from Mellen Bray accepting permit to construct subway across Institution avenue and from the County Commissioners authorizing change in monument in boundary line on Nonantum street.

Petitions referred included that of the call firemen for increase of pay to $225 per year, of the police officers for $1200 a year after five years service, of S. H. McDonald for license as Common Victualler, Walter E. Carley for minor's license, Eames F. Milligan to transport liquor, and Simon A. White for sewer in Hawthorne street.

Hearings on Oct. 17 were ordered on petitions of E. M. Hallett to remove a tree on Centre street, and of the Telephone Co. for poles on Concord and Laurel sts and for attachments on Union st.

On recommendation of committees, the Telephone Co. was granted relocations on Washington st and Warren st. and attachments on Seminary ave and Berkeley st, the Gas Light Co. attachments on Madison ave, Harvard st, Cabot st, Gay st, Lowell ave, Woodland road, poles on Harvard st, Fuller st and Lowell ave, Frank P. Benson a wagon license, C. McHale a wagon license and liquor transportation permit, Jacob Meilman, a junk license, R. L. Davidson permission to erect an office building on Washington st ward 3, sewers ordered in Commonwealth avenue, water mains in Cranberry st, Gannon ct and Hobart terrace, and hearings assigned on Oct. 17 on taking land for sewers in North st and Gannon ct, and on laying concrete sidewalks under betterment act on Auburndale ave, Rowe st, Wolcott st and Camden road.

On recommendation of committees leave to withdraw was granted the Newton Upper Falls Express Co on petition for wagons and liquor transportation permit, to Estenon M. Cifre for a Common Victualler license, to Jacob Bressler for transfer of junk license, and on petitions of the Telephone Co. for poles on Berkeley and Fairview sts. The Public Works Committee also reported inexpedient to construct a sewer in Langley road.

Orders were also passed calling the State election on Nov. 5, taking land for sewer purposes in Hobart terrace, Garden road and Bacon place, for sewers in Bacon place and Hobart terrace, for concrete sidewalks under the betterment act on Ballard st, Ward st and Summer st, assigning hearing Oct. 17 on removal of trees on Summer st., and granting petitions of Newton Street Railway Co. for alterations of locations on Centre street bridge and for pole and curve on Centre st.

The usual recess for committee meetings was held and at 9.12 the board adjourned.

Newton's Unjust and Illegal Annual State Tax

Editor Newton Graphic:

I have taken 26 years for the basis of my facts, 1881-1906.

During this period Newton has paid a State tax amounting to $909,802.50. It has been given three fourths of pharmacists liquor license fees amounting to $305.25.

Let me show why Newton has paid an annual unjust and illegal tax. The amount of this tax, over the gift, has been $852,569.00. How has this come about? It was caused by a deficiency of state income to meet its expenses. That has arisen because of an unjust legislative statute, in existence since 1879. In 1879 the legislature declared by its action that the fees paid for liquor licenses were the property of the State, thereby asserting that such were State licenses.

In May 1900 the Supreme Court of Massachusetts said in the case of McGinnis vs. Medway, 176 Mass. 68: "Although the question whether licenses shall be granted in any city or town is determined by the vote of the inhabitants thereof, still the Licensing board *** do not act as the agents of the city or town, but as public officers specially designated in that behalf. *** The license is not granted by the city or town but by the state, acting through its duly appointed officers."

Thus the legislature and the court agree that liquor licenses are state licenses and the fees paid for them are the property of the entire state. The moment those fees are paid the money is the states and would all go into its treasury but for the legislative statute which gives three fourths of the fees to a special class of cities and towns.

How does this affect Newton? The state tax during the 26 years has been $51,250,000.00. The state has given away of the fees $43,094,608.75. The state tax has averaged $1,971,153.84. Had the entire amount of the fees for state liquor licenses been paid into its treasury the annual state tax would have been $313,268.91, or one sixteenth of what it has been. Newton has paid (net) to the state $909,407.25; it should have been but 1-16, or $56,837.95; a difference, over taxed of $852,569.30.

Clearly this was paid because of a deficiency of state income. Clearly that deficiency was caused by an annual gift to a special class of cities and towns of $1,637,408.00.

The Supreme Court has interpreted the constitutional clause "proportional and reasonable" taxation, to mean "for governmental purposes for the common good." It has declared several legislative statutes illegal which provided gifts to special classes of persons.

A forcible illustration is the case of Boston. During the period named, 26 years, Boston state tax has been $18,902,130.00; it has been given out of state fees, $20,217,642.43; a surplus present of $1,315,512.43, and towards Boston's taxes and its present, Newton has contributed $852,569.30.

It is time we had a "fair deal" and "proportional and reasonable" taxation. No one can claim that such taxation or such enormous gifts are for the "common good" in view of the facts as expressed by the Supreme Court of the United States in Crowley v. Christenson (137 U. S. 86):—

"By the general concurrence of opinion of every civilized and Christian community, there are few sources of crime and misery to society equal to the dramshop, where intoxicating liquors, in small quantities, to be drunk at the time, are sold indiscriminately to all parties applying. The statistics of every state show a greater amount of crime and misery attributable to the use of ardent spirits obtained at these retail liquor saloons than to any other source."

Your senator and representatives can unite in securing justice and the people should require them to do so.

Yours Respectfully,
Byron R. Johnson.

Street Railway Notes

Another step toward simplifying the control of the street railways comprising the Newton system, that has been in progress for some time, was the authorization this week of the absorption of the Waltham Street Railway by the Newton Street Railway, both of which are among the roads held by the Boston Suburban Electric Companies. The Waltham is to transfer all its property and franchises to the Newton, and the latter is to meet the outstanding indebtedness and obligations of the Waltham.

The Railroad Commissioners approved the terms of the consolidation in an order, and at the same time allow the Newton to issue a thousand share of additional capital stock, par $100, to cover the Waltham stock, exchanging share for share.

The Westboro & Hopkinton, the South Middlesex and the Natick & Cohasset companies, which are under the same general control, were consolidated early in the summer.

Josiah F. Robinson

Mr. Josiah F. Robinson, for some years a resident of Maple street, Auburndale, but more recently of Sanford, Me., died at the residence of his son in that town on Sept. 23rd as the result of falling down stairs, fracturing his skull. Mr. Robinson was born in Bangor, Me., in 1835 and lived there all his life, except his brief residence at Auburndale. He is survived by a widow and five children, Freeman M. of Taunton, Edward C. of Brookline, Fred H. of Ogunquit, Me., Frank A. of Portland, Me., and Miss Ella M., a teacher in the Burr school of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were eagerly anticipating the observance of their golden wedding on October 6th of the present year and his death is particularly sad in consequence. Funeral services were held in Bangor, Me., in the Baptist church of which Mr. Robinson was a deacon for twenty five years.

Aldermen View City

The aldermanic outing to view the city buildings and inspect municipal work has now become an annual institution and that carried out last Saturday by invitation of Mayor Warren was most successful. The party included President Carter, Vice President Weston, Aldermen Stone, Holmes, Cabot, Hall, Palmer, Webster, Condrin, Converse, Underwood, Lyons, White, Bosson, Bacon, Bowen, Jones, Burr, Clarke and Day, Street Commissioner Ross, City Engineer Farnham, Water Commissioner Whitney, Overseer of the Poor Fowle, Chief Randlett, City Solicitor Slocum, Agent Russell of the Board of Health, Public Buildings Commissioner Elder and Mr. F. E. Stanley.

Eleven automobiles were necessary to accommodate the party, Aldermen Day and Bowen, Mr. F. E. Stanley and Mr. Slocum providing the extra machines.

Leaving City Hall about nine o'clock, brief visits were made to the Auburndale avenue stable, River street, the water department stable on Watertown street, Crafts street stable, the Stearns school now being erected, No. 1 Engine house, Hunnewell hill, the Waban hill reservoir, the street improvements on South street and Commonwealth avenue and No. 3 Engine house at Newton Centre. Here the party was photographed by Asst City Engineer Hastings and then proceeded thru Commonwealth avenue inspecting the automobile roadways recently completed by Street Commissioner Ross, thru Weston to the new bridge just finished over the Charles River at Concord street. The handsome appearance of the bridge brought out many compliments to City Engineer Farnham who furnished the design. A stop was made at the sewer work at Waban and then a quick run was made to the Newton Club where an excellent lunch was served. An inspection was made of the work already accomplished on the widening and deepening of Laundry brook in Newtonville and plans for future work outlined by Mr. Farnham. The new athletic field on the Clafin estate was passed and a stop made at the power station on Homer street. From here the grade crossing work at Newton Centre was the objective point and the many improvements were carefully noted and the delays in placing the bridges brought out many forceful comments. A quick run thru Newton Highlands was then made to the new Hyde school building, thence to the Boylston street bridge at Upper Falls, the proposed work on the outlet of South Meadow brook and the always interesting pumping station. A delightful ride thru the woods on the Needham side, across Kourick bridge to the City Farm on Winchester street ended the official schedule. At this point the party separated with many manifestations of pleasure over the delightful weather and the success of the trip.

Church Rededicated

Having been remodelled at a cost of several thousand dollars and a new organ and memorial windows installed, the Auburndale Congregational church was rededicated last Sunday. Two services of more than ordinary interest took part, both being very largely attended.

The church is situated on Hancock street at the corner of Woodland road. With the extensive improvements which have been going on for several months completed the interior of the church is especially attractive. There is a new organ which is a gift of Miss Lucy W. Burr as a memorial to her father, Deacon Charles C. Burr, and her mother, Mrs. Amelia S. Burr. There are also two new windows at either side of the pulpit, these being the gift of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Sweet as a memorial to them. There are also new stained glass windows throughout the church.

The dedication sermon was delivered at the morning service by Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark of Auburndale, will known as president of the world's Christian Endeavor society. Rev. Horace Dutton offered the invocation. The responsive reading by Rev. Dr. F. N. Peloubet was followed by the report of the building committee by Rev. Nathaniel Dike, the chairman. Rev. Mr. Dutton then offered Scripture reading and Rev. Dr. E. E. Strong offered prayer.

Rev. Dr. Clark said in part: The eleventh chapter of Hebrews calls the muster roll of the heroes of the ages. In this roster we find the names of the greatest and best men of the Old Testament. No less than seventeen of them are mentioned by name, and then the writer, as though despairing of enumerating all those who through faith had won the victory, cries out, "What shall I more say?", and then goes on to mass together those who have subdued kingdoms and wrought righteousness. Then he makes the remarkable statement, quite unbelievable if we did not find it in the Word of God, that we, also, are compassed about by the spirits of such great men, and others who have fought a good fight and finished their course, and who behold with eager interest, the welfare of those who are left behind.

This thought grows the more impressive as we think of the figure which the writer had in mind. Whoever was the author of the Hebrews, he had evidently visited some great amphitheatre like the Stadium of Athens, where the Grecian games took place, a Stadium to which Paul himself often doubtless went, as we judge from his writings. The writer of the Hebrews thought of himself as in some such spot as this, standing in the midst of the arena, the contest going on, and himself engaged in it, every nerve strained to its highest tension, every sense alert and eager, his ambition and enterprise and hope stirred by the uncounted throngs that surrounded him on every side, even to the topmost spot where man or boy could perch himself. The stadium is filled, and all of these fifty thousand spectators have their eyes fixed on him and the other contestants, encouraging, cheering and stimulating them.

The very same thought may come to us with like power of encouragement, as we worship in this old sanctuary for the first time since it has been beautified and renovated. Here, fifty years ago last July, when first this house of worship was dedicated, came Dr. J. L. Mann, of the Old South Church in Boston, to give the dedicatory address, and Dr. Cady of Cambridge, to offer the prayer of dedication, and Dr. Swain of Providence to preach the sermon, and Dr. Furber of Newton Centre to give the charge to the pastor, and Dr. Wellman of Newton, to give the right hand of fellowship, and Dr. Baxter of Boston, to give the address to the church and the society. Here, on the same day, a young pastor was installed, and here sat those whom some of us knew so well and remember so fondly. How full of memories of holy hearts and of happy, helpful lives is any church that has been used as a place of worship for half a century. Every year adds to those memories, every decade peoples the pews with more and more sacred associations.

There at the head of these pews sat many a strong and stalwart father and leader; there sat the mother with the little children; there the young men and maidens, just coming to a knowledge of their wonderful inheritance in the kingdom of God; there sat one who was oppressed with sorrow and weighed down with grief, whose sorrows took wings, and whose griefs fled away when she came within these doors; there was another burdened with a load of sin, whose burden like Bunyan's of old, rolled into the open sepulchre when here he heard the offer of salvation and peace; here some one gained strength to resist temptation, and another learned the secret of trust as a shield against the darts of the enemy, and another threw off the load of heart-breaking care; and still another learned to look death fairly in the face, and to shout with the apostle, "O, death, where is thy sting? O, grave, where is thy victory?"

All these memories and associations cluster around our church today. No renovations can hurt them, no new decorations can cover them up, the light that streams in through these new windows, as through those to which we have been accustomed, shows us that this is indeed the house of God, the gate of Heaven,—the same house of God as of old, with all its clustering memories and blessed associations.

The speaker closed with an appeal to his hearers to rededicate themselves to the service of God and the work of the church, as the only true way in which any church can be dedicated,—through the consecrated lives of a faithful, unselfish, Christlike membership.

The evening service opened with invocation by Rev. Dr. Peloubet, Scripture reading by Rev. John S. Chandler and prayer by Rev. Dr. Samuel W. Dike. The sermon was by Rev. Dr. Dean A. Walker, and there were addresses by William H. Blood and Arthur W. Kelly, both old members of the society.

Rev. Calvin Cutler

While the church which he had served many years as pastor was about to celebrate the rededication of its remodelled edifice at Auburndale, Rev. Calvin Cutler, aged 74, died last Sunday at his home, 32 Fern street, Auburndale.

He had been seriously ill for several months. Although his condition had become considerably worse in the past few weeks he had looked forward to rallying sufficiently to attend the celebration at the church. He died shortly before the morning service was about to take place. Death was due to heart trouble.

Rev. Mr. Cutler was a native of Holliston, having been born in that town Feb. 19, 1833. He studied at Lawrence academy and in 1852 entered Dartmouth. After being graduated from Dartmouth he entered Andover theological seminary and was graduated from that institution in 1861.

He was ordained to the ministry in the Congregational church at Ipswich, N. H., in March 1862. He was extended a call to become pastor of the Auburndale Congregational church in this city Feb. 19, 1867. He began his duties here May 9, 1867 and continued as pastor of the church 28 years, resigning in 1895 to retire from active church work. With the reluctant acceptance of his resignation the society made him pastor emeritus.

Rev. Mr. Cutler was twice married, both his wives having been daughters of Rev. David Sanford of Medfield. He was well known not only in this city but throughout New England.

Three daughters and a son survive. The daughters Misses Alice D. Mary H. and Harriet M. Cutler reside in Auburndale.

Funeral services were held at the Auburndale Congregational church at 1:15 Tuesday afternoon and among the mourners at the services were many well known Auburndale people. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles M. Southgate, who succeeded Rev. Mr. Cutler as pastor in 1895; assisted by Rev. Dr. H. J. Patrick, pastor emeritus of the Second Congregational church, West Newton, and Rev. Horace Dutton. The floral offerings were many and included a number of particularly handsome set pieces. The remains were taken to West Medway for interment.

Burdett College of Business and Shorthand, 18 Boylston street, Boston, is one of the most finely appointed schools in the country. It has recently equipped two additional rooms to meet the demands of its constantly increasing volume of business. It is evident that the people of New England appreciate the progressive spirit which is manifested in every department of Burdett College. Superintendent Burdett very wisely arranges the courses of instruction so that students who were unable to enter at the opening of the school year can begin their work on any Monday morning during the fall and winter.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The Democratic state convention held at Springfield last Saturday has greatly simplified the political questions to be decided on November 5th. Tariff revision, reciprocity with Canada, and even the only logical question for a state campaign—the administration of the present Governor, have faded away, and the only question remaining is that which concerns the simple honor of the good old Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Contrast the conventions of the two political parties held the same day. One, composed of men who respected both themselves and their state, was conducted in an orderly and straightforward manner. The other, dominated by Boston ward heelers, without a semblance of fair play, disgraced, not only its party but the people of the entire state, and the leaders of that party will have to answer, not only for their own opinions, but for the acts of their political supporters.

The best answer to the disgraceful proceedings of the Springfield convention is not a vote for the man who leads a bolt from its nominations, but a vote for Governor Guild, Lieut. Governor Draper, and the Republican state ticket.
Decent men should show their disgust for such political methods, by swelling the majority which will be rolled up for the Republican ticket next November.
Let the Democratic leaders realize that common decency and fair play are still dear to voters, even of the Democratic party, and let man as well as "God Save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

We trust no one will take the election of Mr. Charles S. Dennison of this city as a state senator, as already accomplished. Mr. Dennison has a most popular and able opponent in Senator James H. Vahey and, altho this is a strong Republican district, it has already been carried by Senator Vahey by something like 1500 plurality. Every Republican should not only plan to cast his own vote for Mr. Dennison but should induce all his neighbors and friends to do likewise.

The re-nomination and re-election of Councillor Seward W. Jones follow as a matter of course, after his excellent service during the present year at the State House.

Let General Bartlett Decline

To the Editor NEWTON GRAPHIC:

For the sake of the honor of Newton, where, however else men differ, all are agreed as to decency and fairplay, it is to be hoped that the citizen to whom has been offered a mess of pottage cooked at the Springfield Hell Kitchen will so value his good name as to decline the offer promptly and decidedly.

John Cutler.

Newtonville, Oct. 7, 1907.

Lasell Notes

cent at Lasell Seminary will be given on Thursday evening, October 17th, at 7.45 o'clock. Subject: "American Humor from Artemus Ward to Mark Twain." Friends are welcome.

Politics

Mr. Burton Payne Gray, who is a candidate for ward alderman from Ward 6 has tendered his resignation as a member of the Republican ward and city committee from that ward.

Prominent Newtonville republicans have suggested the name of Mr. William Price as a candidate for alderman from Ward 2.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Republican Club of Massachusetts held this week Messrs. Charles J. Bailey, Andrew B. Cobb, Charles A. Clarke, Fred
A. Hubbard, William Hansen, J. E.

Mr. LaRose Watched.

Mr. Louis F. LaRose, for the past three years physical director of the Newton Y. M. C. A. and who has accepted a similar position under the U. S. government in the Panama zone, was presented with a gold watch fitted with a stop movement showing split seconds at an informal gathering of his friends last Wednesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Mr. H. W. Bascom, secretary of the Association made the presentation speech to which Mr. LaRose responded. Those present were then introduced to the new physical director, Mr.
J. L. Carle who comes from Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Mr. LaRose left Newton yesterday afternoon and will sail from New York on Saturday for Panama.

Police Paragraphs

Chief Mitchell returned this week from a brief vacation trip to New York and Vermont.

Members of the police department have petitioned the board of aldermen for $1200 a year after five years service.

Dominic Caponi, an Italian butcher living at 96 Pine street, West Newton, who was arrested Sunday on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon on Miss Rosie Ratti, was convicted in court Monday morning and fined $25. He appealed and was held in $300.

Testimony brought out the assertion that Caponi met a crowd of fellow countrymen returning from a christening on Pine street and had an altercation. He drew a butcher knife on the young woman, it was alleged, and then went home for a revolver. Patrolman Seaver, who arrested him, testified he found no revolver in Caponi's clothing but did find shot gun shells.

Charles W. Loring

Mr. Charles Wing Loring, a much respected resident of Newton for many years, died at his home on Park street Monday after a brief illness. He was a native of Dorchester where he was born 61 years ago and was well known in Boston business circles having been, until recently, New England agent for the Gorham Manufacturing Company. He was a member of the Hunnewell club a life member of the Newton Club and attended Eliot church. One daughter Miss Rose Loring and two sons
Messrs C. Raymond and Edward O.
Loring survive him. Funeral services were held from the house Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and were attended by many relatives and friends. Rev. Dr.
Wolcott Calkins was the officiating cler-gyman and the numerous floral tributes testified the love and esteem in which the deceased was held. The interment was in the family lot in Newton Centre.

Henry R. Mandell

Mr. Henry Russell Mandell, the well known broker, of the firm of Bright, Sears & Co. died Friday at the Boothbay hospital Boston, of heart failure which followed an operation performed a short time ago.

Mr. Mandell was born in Acushnet, Oct. 3, 1852. In the early 70s he came to Boston and entered the wholesale dry goods business. Since that time he had been a resident of this city and Boston except for three years, 1880 to 1883, which he spent in the West at Castleton, North Dakota. There he was in charge of a section of the Dalrymple farm, then the largest wheat farm in the world.

Some years after his return to Boston Mr. Mandell entered the stock brokerage business as the partner of George T. Lord, the present secretary of the stock exchange, under the name of Lord & Mandell. About 18 years later Mr.
Lord became secretary of the exchange and the firm was dissolved. Soon after Mr. Mandell entered the brokerage firm of Bright, Sears & Co., with whom he was connected at his death.

Mr. Mandell was a member of the Newton Club and treasurer and a director of the Raven Mining Company.

He leaves three sons and a daughter.
Funeral services were held from 103
Hunnewell avenue Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and were largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, pastor of Channing church, officiated, and selections were rendered by a quartette. There were numerous floral tributes, several of them being from the business associates of the deceased in Boston. The remains were taken to New Bedford for burial, in the family lot, on Thursday.

Rogers-Nickerson

The marriage of Miss Nellie Rogers
Nickerson the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Theodore C. Nickerson of Newtonville and Mr. Charles F. Rogers Jr. of Newton took place last evening at the home of the bride 26 Lowell avenue. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. Jay T. Stocking of the Central church. The bride groomed in white messaline, was attended by Miss Mary Nickerson of Newtonville as maid of honor and the best man was Mr. Fred Berry of Stoneham. Young ladies acted as ushers, a delightful change from the conventional form, they were the Misses Frances Nickerson, Elizabeth Nickerson, Olive Nickerson, Blanche Wadleigh of Newtonville, Blanche Perry of Concord,
N. H., and Euphemia Templeton of East Boston. A reception followed the ceremony until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs.
Rogers being assisted in receiving by
Mr. and Mrs. Nickerson and Mr.
Charles F. Rogers.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will reside at 14
Summer street, Newton Upper Falls.

High School Notes

James F. Donohue has been elected captain of the 1908 baseball team, taking the place of Fritz Ely who has entered Phillips Andover Academy. Donohue is a fast fielder but made only an ordinary showing at the stick last season.

In the boys tennis tournament finals last week Edward Woods '09 beat Carl Holbrook '08 7-5, 6-3, 6-3.

The football team literally walked away with the Dedham high team on Tuesday. Nearly all the substitutes were tried out. The score was 29 to 0. The football team met with its first defeat on Saturday at the hands of the strong Everett aggregation. Although it was a defeat the home team played much better football all through the game than did the visitors. Many of the decisions of umpire Ingalls were quite questionable. Chandler, Allen and Marshall excelled for Newton, while Brickley played the star game for Everett. The score was 11 to 10.

Lapham-Bassett

The wedding of Miss Helen A. Bassett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abbot Bassett of Newtonville and Mr. Royal T. Lapham of Newton Highlands took place Wednesday evening at eight o'clock in the West Newton Unitarian church.

The bride was gowned in white mesaline trimmed with Honiton lace and wore a tulle veil. Her bouquet was of lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Marion D. Bassett, was the maid of honor and wore pale blue brocade silk and carried bride roses. The bridesmaids were the Misses Elizabeth Alley of West Newton, Miss Lucy Drew of Cambridge, Miss Ruth Peckham of Newton Highlands and Miss Olive Nickerson of Newtonville, gowned alike in white radium silk with pink trimmings and carrying bouquets of pinks. The best man was Mr. Earle Shaw of Newton Highlands and the ushers were Messrs William Owings, S. Harold Shaw, George Kerr, William Kerr, and Charles Logan of Newton Highlands and Chester B. Nickerson of Providence, R. I.

The bride was escorted to the chancel on the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, pastor of the church, in the presence of a large number of friends of the young people. Miss Laura B. Henry played the wedding march.

A reception followed at the bride's home on Central avenue, Newtonville, Mr. and Mrs. Lapham being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Abbot Bassett and Mr. and Mrs. George B. Lapham. The house was tastefully decorated with hydrangeas, laurel and autumn leaves and flowers.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Lapham will reside at 57 Hyde street, Newton Highlands.

Lend-A-Hand Clubs

Rev. Dr. E. E. Hale presided at the autumn conference of the Lend-A-Hand Club on Saturday in the Unitarian church, West Newton.

In his address of welcome Dr. Hale said the Lend-A-Hand Club is now in touch with the whole world and he read letters from Mrs. Jane Sharp of Liberia, who is doing an excellent work in caring for poor black girls on the edge of the wilderness; from Pandita Ramabai, who now has 163 girls in her school in India; and also told something of Dr. Grenfell's work in Labrador. He also referred to the million of immigrants who came from Europe last year and urged that something be done for the large colony of Italians in different parts of New England, especially in the way of furnishing them with helpful reading.

Dr. Hale said he had a peculiar pleasure in being at West Newton and he gave some characteristic reminiscences of his boyhood days when his father built the first railroad between Boston and Newton.

After reports had been submitted from the thirty-five clubs represented Mrs. Bernard Whitman of the central office told of the varied work transacted there.

The club of the church entertained the company at luncheon, and the afternoon program included addresses by Dr. Richard C. Cabot, who told about the social service department of the Massachusetts General Hospital, and Miss Florence Marshall, director of the Trade School for Girls on Massachusetts avenue, Boston, where there are now nearly one hundred and fifty grammar graduates receiving instruction that will make them capable, industrious wage-earners, equipped to enter the business field at good wages instead of as incompetents. Dr. Corbett, who also spoke, was introduced by Dr. Hale as one who had thrown a new light on charity work.

Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, minister of the church, also spoke words of appreciation for what the Lend-A-Hand clubs are doing.

The hostesses of the day were the members of the Lend-A-Hand Dramatic Club, of which Miss Ethel Freeman is president.

Clubs and Lodges

About two hundred members and guests were present Wednesday evening at the official visitation of Dalhousie lodge by District Deputy Grand Master George P. Whitmore with R. W. District Deputy Grand Marshal Wallace C. Boyden.

The lodge was further honored by the presence of the Grand Master of Masons in Mass., John Albert Blake and at the conclusion of the degree work, the lodge was warmly complimented by the Grand Master, who also urged the importance of the movement to establish a Masonic home in this state.

Mr. Ita Council of the Royal Arcanum are planning for an especially interesting meeting on next Monday evening at 8 o'clock and will have something which is out of the ordinary, as they expect on that evening a visitation from Haven No. 3 of the Royal Arcanum Angels, a new organization similar to the Shriners. The members of this organization have pledged themselves to work for the benefit of the order and is composed of men who are supposed to be good speakers and entertainers in several lines and a surprise is no doubt in store for those who will be present at this meeting. The meeting is to be thrown open to non-members and anyone desiring to become acquainted with the order is cordially invited to be present on that evening. The Council is arranging something special for every meeting and on the evening of Monday, November 11th, is planning for an entertainment of high order to be given by the Arlington Boat Glee Club, an organization of sixteen voices, to be assisted by Miss Elizabeth Pooler, reader, and followed by dancing and refreshments. These artists need no introduction to the City of Newton and a large audience is expected.

The quarterly meeting of the Newton Hospital Catholic Aid Association was held last week Thursday evening in Denison hall, Newtonville, and final arrangements were completed for the whist party and dance to be held Oct. 25 at Bray hall, Newton Centre.

Following the business meeting there was a pleasing musical program in which Dr. A. H. Bourque, cornet, Mrs. P. F. Coady, piano and Mr. Mansfield, soloist, participated.

The Newton Ladies Home Circle will meet at the Pomroy Home, Newton, Wednesday Oct. 16, at 2.30 P. M.

Street Railway Notes

An electric car of the Commonwealth avenue line went off the track near Centre street early Wednesday morning and broke a lamp post. No one was injured.

CITY HALL NOTES

Chief of Fire Dept. Randlett is attending the National convention of Fire Chiefs at Washington this week.

THEATRES

Park Theatre—Charles Frohman, maker and manager of the majority of the scintillating stars of the theatrical world, added another luminary to his constellation at the Park Theatre, Boston, on Monday night when he presented Marie Doro, with stellar prominence, in "The Morals of Marcus". Again was the rare Frohman discernment manifested. Miss Doro emerged from the initial performance with a luster that has already begotten for her ranking with Miss Maude Adams. Such a personal triumph as that achieved by Miss Doro on Monday night has no counterpart in Boston stage annals. The story has to do with Sir Marcus Ordeyne, an almost middle-aged baronet with no taste for society and a strong liking for research in Renaissance literature, who has long succeeded in repelling mamma's with marriageable daughters, disarming them with the shy man's bluntness often passing for cynicism. Into his methodical life one day comes Carlotta, taken from a Turkish harem by a youth who brought her to England and then shirked further responsibility by committing suicide. She is lovely, helpless and unsophisticated, with the rather terrible frankness of a child. Not knowing what else to do, Sir Marcus takes her into his household. And Mrs. Grundy is shocked, putting the worst construction upon his frank philanthropy. Carlotta gains a foothold in his heart, but Sebastian Pasquale, the professional Lothario, runs away with her, grows tired of her rather infantile charm, leaves her to find her way back to Sir Marcus again. Eminent forgiving, he welcomes and marries her.

Tremont Theatre—Advanced Vaudeville at the Tremont Theatre is growing more and more in the favor of the people of the greater Boston, as is shown by the large and most enthusiastic audiences in this popular playhouse, notably in the evenings. The performances at the Tremont are not continuous, but are complete in themselves, beginning at two o'clock in the afternoon and eight o'clock at night. Each entertainment consists of ten acts, all of the highest character, and they can all be seen and enjoyed in ideal surroundings without any waste of time. To show that Klaw & Erlanger will keep faith with the public, it is only necessary to mention the names of the extraordinary talent secured for next week. At the head of the list stands Claire Romaine, the famous boy impersonator from London, an importation only possible to Klaw & Erlanger. Others who will keep her excellent company are: Caicedo, "king of the wire"; Keefe and Pearl, vocalist and harpist; Bellman and Moore, comedy sketch; Barnold's dogs (the only holdover); May Ward and her girls, in a fascinating "girl" act; Julian Rose, in monologue; the Seven Mowatts, club jugglers, and a new collection of animated pictures.

Keith's Theatre—One of the most notable events in the history of vaudeville in Boston is due to occur next Monday. It is nothing less than the initial appearance at Keith's Theatre of the distinguished actress, Nance O'Neill. Supported by a company headed by McKee Rankin, Miss O'Neill is to appear in a condensed version of "The Jewess", with the famous curse scene included in the action. Miss O'Neill's engagement is for one week only. One of the most novel comedy acts of the season will occupy a prominent place on the bill—Robert Dailey and company in a sketch depicting happenings on a trolley car, with Mr. Dailey as the conductor and the members of his company as the passengers. Many very funny character types are introduced. The European acts will include Kitty Trancy, The Five Madcaps and the Rigoletto Brothers. Kitty Trancy has a most attractive turn that is much out of the ordinary run. She has a very handsome trained horse which she puts through his paces, and she also does some capital juggling. The Five Madeups are English soubrettes, who do a specialty something on the order of that of the Pony Ballet, only they do much more acrobatic work. Sensational stunts on a revolving ladder make up the act of the Rigoletto Brothers. Dave Genaro and Ray Bailey in their singing and dancing skit, Waterbury Brothers and Tenney, with their capital instrumental selections and droll comedy bits; Howard and Howard, "The Messenger Boy and the Thespian", in songs and imitations, and Jimmie Lucas, The Boy With the Dialects, a capital character comedian, are among the standard American acts that will be in the bill. The Harlem Brothers, acrobatic humorists; Blamphin and Hehr, playing a comedy skit; La Dent, a clever clown juggler, and new pictures by the Kinetograph will fill out the program.

Boston Grand Opera House—"The Gambler of the West" will return next week to the Boston Grand Opera House the place of its biggest success on the road last season. This play is one really well-constructed melodrama of the frontier, and the interest never lags from start to finish. The play is typically Western throughout. There are real Indians and cowboys especially engaged for this production, besides paraphernalia brought from the country where the action transpires at a great expense to the producer, A. H. Woods. One of the most realistic things in the play is the prairie fire, which is not only sensational but a perfect picture of the most dreaded of catastrophes of the forests. The usual matinees will be given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Orpheum Theatre—Quite the most remarkable bill of features ever framed up for a vaudeville show is the program which will be offered at the Orpheum for the week beginning Monday Oct. 14. Heading the great bill is that international sensation Charmion, the charming performer on the trapeze. Frank Bryant's big spectacular transformation act, the Seventeen Human Flags and International Peace Conference, acknowledged as the most pretentious "girl" act on the stage today, is another big feature. The famous Dublin minstrel, Frank Fogarty will make his first appearance in Boston next week, as will also Charles Wayne assisted by Gertrude Des Roca & Co., in vaudeville's funniest farce "10 A. M., or The Morning After." This sketch runs twenty minutes and a statistician has computed that it contains 1000 separate and distinct laughs, which is almost at the rate of one laugh a second. What is proclaimed as the greatest monkey act in vaudeville is that of Raf-fin's monkeys, one of whom does an imitation of Charmion in her disrobing act on the trapeze, which is declared to be hilariously funny. Welch, Francis and Co. will appear in their funny sketch, and a genuine novelty will be furnished by Juno Salmio, the Mephisto Moderner, whose act with unique electrical and scenic effects has scored a tremendous hit. Black and Jones, the colored comedians and new moving pictures by the Kinetograph will complete the bill.

Mass. Editors at Food Fair

The New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition is open. A vast throng, the largest that ever occupied Mechanics Building has seen it and their verdict, individually and collectively, is "The Greatest Ever." The Food Fair is a supreme success—there can be no question of that.

There are 350 exhibitors—the largest number ever assembled at a Food Fair, and of these 50 give manufacturing exhibits. The exhibits cover the widest field of any that have ever been shown at a Food Fair. Everything from the newest thing in candy kisses to the Ceylon national government exhibit of tea is included. As a matter of fact there are three government exhibits and each one is well worth seeing. The Ceylon government with its reproduction of a Tea Totem has the largest exhibit. This occupies the stage in Grand Hall and is not only attractive but of genuine educational value. Pretty girls in beautiful costumes brought direct from Ceylon serve tea free to all visitors and native Singhalese men are in attendance.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts has a particularly timely exhibit from the department of Weights and Measures. The exhibit is in charge of the state commissioner of weights and measures, Daniel C. Palmer. Mr. Palmer is assisted by inspectors J. W. Williams of Medford, P. J. Tetrault of Holyoke, L. D. F. Marston of Boston and A. S. K. Clark of Cambridge. The exhibit includes complete sets of standard weights and measures of the Commonwealth, the nation and foreign countries. One of the most interesting features is the display of condemned weights and measures which have been seized by the state. The ingenuity displayed in arranging false bottoms to measures and trick scales is well worth seeing.

The Canadian government has a most instructive exhibit of the products and industries of the country. The musical feature of the Fair is the concerts by the United States Marine Band. Concerts are given afternoon and evening and the program is changed twice every day.

The most attractive of all the free features is the Old Fashioned One-Ring Circus. It is a perfect reproduction of the type of circus that toured the country in wagons 40 or 50 years ago. In every detail is the old time idea carried out. The attendants all wear antiquated costumes, the acts are done in the old way—and by the way there are eight acts that are as good as one would see at any big three ring show. Pete Conklin the Shakespearean clown made the biggest kind of a hit. There is no charge to see the old time circus. Both admission and seats are free.

The big feature of the Children's Bazaar is the Children's Theatre. No grown folks are admitted here unless accompanied by a child. Admission and seats are free. A feature is Prof. Zammo, the smallest magician in the world and another is the Cosmos English Punch and Judy.

Motion pictures of the Passion Play is another first class entertainment that is free. Exhibitions are given morning, afternoon and evening, and it is free to all. The Woman's Department is in charge of Mrs. Inez E. Fox. Every day is assigned to some club or society and special lectures and demonstrations are given with a daily change of program. Mr. Walter A. Courtney gives lectures every evening at 8 on "Beautiful Ceylon", which he illustrates with motion pictures of native life.

The Food Fair this year is open every day from 10 to 10, and it will, in truth, "take a day to see it."

Members of the Massachusetts Press Association were guests of the Food Fair management Monday afternoon, prior to the public opening. After a business session, the editors and ladies were given an excellent banquet, enlivened with music by the Ladies Imperial Orchestra and by solos by Daisy Shaw Merritt. Gov. Guild a member of the Association was present and made an address. The Association were then given a concert by the U. S. Marine Band and witnessed the best acts of the Old Fashioned Circus. A most enjoyable afternoon was the verdict of those present and Secretary A. C. Dowse, a veteran newspaper man himself was the recipient of many congratulations.

Autumn Festival

Under the direction of a large committee an autumn festival is being arranged in aid of the Massachusetts Insane Asylum. It will take place on Saturday, Oct. 19, from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M., at the Chestnut Hill Club.

Among those who are in charge of the committees appointed to manage this elaborate entertainment are Mrs. John Richardson, Miss Sarah Andrews, Mrs. Arthur T. Cabot, Mrs. Russell S. Codman, Mrs. T. J. Coolidge, Jr., Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby, Mrs. L. Carteret Fenno, Mrs. R. H. Fitz, Mrs. Paul R. Frothingham, Mrs. Charles P. Hemenway, Mrs. J. Arnold Lowell, Mrs. Nathan Matthews, Jr., Mrs. George R. Minot, Miss E. W. Perkins, Mrs. Neal Rantoul, Mrs. Thomas Russell, Mrs. Richard M. Saltonstall, Mrs. Philip S. Sears, Mrs. G. Howland Shaw, Mrs. Louis A. Shaw, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Miss A. H. Thwing, Miss Mary Wheelwright, Mrs. Hugh Whitney, Miss Mary E. Williams, Mrs. S. S. Bartlett, Mrs. C. H. Richardson.

Not often is there such a varied programme presented for an outdoor affair. There is to be tennis, bridge and bowling tournaments. Entries for the scratch tennis tournament (mixed doubles for players over fifteen years) may be sent before Oct. 14 to Miss Elizabeth Gray, Chestnut Hill. The tournament will open on Thursday, Oct. 17, at 2.30 P. M., and will continue on Friday at the same hour and on Saturday at 9.30 A. M.

Entries for the bridge tournament, may be made before Oct. 14 to Mrs. J. Arnold Lowell, Chestnut Hill. Entries for the bowling tournament before Oct. 14 to Mrs. Richard M. Saltonstall, Chestnut Hill.

Then there are to be automobile rides, "Seeing Chestnut Hill"; a gold mine for the children, sack and potato races, etc., candy and cake, flower and fruit tables, lunch counter and tea and dancing between four and six o'clock. Donations will be gratefully received at the club on the morning of the festival. Money may be sent at any time to Mrs. John Richardson, Chestnut Hill.

—Crosby's Restaurant, 19 School street, Boston, is a good place to dine at.

Ackiss-Bellows

The wedding of Mrs. Alice Sturtevant Bellows and Mr. Caleb L. Ackiss, purchasing agent of the Boston & Albany Railroad, took place last Monday evening in the Immanuel Baptist church at Newton. While the guests were being ushered into the church edifice by Messrs E. Mandeville Wilkins of Springfield, J. Bernard Ferber, Osgood Packard and Charles L. Seavey of Boston, the organist, Mr. George Mendall Taylor of Cambridge played the following selections on the organ: Toccata in G by Dubois, Fackeltanz No. 3 by Meyerbeer, Andantino by Chauvet and Gavotte by Ambrose Thomas. The bride party entered the church to the strains of the Bridal March by Wagner the bride being escorted by her father Mr. Henry L. Sturtevant of Newtonville. She was dressed in white lace net, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. She was attended by her daughter, Miss Frances Bellows as maid of honor, dressed in pink silk, pink shoes and pink stockings and carrying Daybreak pinks. The best man was Mr. George F. Jenks of Holyoke.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank B. Matthews, pastor of the church and an informal reception followed in the church vestry.

Mr. and Mrs. Ackiss will make a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Detroit, where they will attend the marriage of the bride's father Mr. Henry L. Sturtevant to Miss Lauretta Love, and from thence will go to Washington, and Norfolk, Va.

They will reside at 384 Ward street, Newton Centre, where they will be at home after January 1st.

Seaver-Benson

The wedding was celebrated Monday evening at the home of Lieut. and Mrs. William P. Soule, 26 Broadway, Newtonville, of Miss Henrietta Benson of South Boston and patrolman Joseph H. Seaver of the Newton police department. In the presence of many guests the ceremony was performed by Rev. Richard T. Loring, rector of St. John's Episcopal church. The bride was dressed in cream white pongee silk with duchess lace yoke and trimmings. She carried a bouquet of white roses and wore a wreath of tiny rose buds and maiden hair fern. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a large diamond pin, an heirloom of her family. The maid of honor was Miss Helen S. Barker of Jamaica Plain dressed in pink silk and who carried a bouquet of pinks. Mr. J. Cushing Bailey of Newtonville was best man, and the ushers were Joshua H. Seaver and J. F. Whitney of Newton Lower Falls. There was a reception immediately after the ceremony, Lieut. and Mrs. Soule and Mrs. Kathryn J. Hart an aunt of the bride, assisting. The dwelling was prettily decorated with ferns, palms and autumn leaves. The couple received many handsome gifts of cut glass, silver and other articles. After a trip to Washington and Norfolk, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Seaver will reside at 26 Broadway where they will be at home after Nov. 1st.

Mr. H. T. Burrison

Henry Thayer Burrison son of Prof. and Mrs. Henry K. Burrison of Lincoln Park, West Newton, died at the Carney Hospital, Boston, last Friday following a surgical operation. His case was not considered serious at first and his death was a shock to his family and friends. He was a native of West Newton where he was born 19 years ago. Deceased graduated from the Newton high school last June and had been employed in one of the Boston banks. While in school he was one of the most popular athletes and for three years was a member of the football team the last year holding the position of full back and half back on the eleven that won the championship of the preparatory league. Funeral services were held from the Lincoln Park Baptist church Monday afternoon and were largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Edwin F. Snell, pastor of the church, was the officiating clergyman and he was assisted by Rev. Dr. Henry J. Patrick. A mixed quartet rendered a number of selections. There were a large number of floral tributes from relatives, friends, the various organizations of the church and schoolmates, all testifying to the love and esteem in which the deceased was held. The interment was in Newton Cemetery.

Mr. A. W. Bangs

Mr. Alfred W. Bangs of Waverley avenue was taken suddenly ill with intestinal trouble last Sunday morning and removed to the Carney Hospital, Boston, where he passed away on Monday morning. Mr. Bangs was 56 years and 11 months of age and was a native of Boston. He was a resident of this city but a few months making his home with his brother Mr. William H. Bangs of Waverley avenue, Newton. He was in business with the American Woollen Company. Mr. Bangs was a member of the Royal Arcanum. Funeral services were held from his brother's home 322 Waverley avenue at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon, in charge of Rev. Laurens MacLure of Grace church and the interment was at Forest Hills.

Annual Rifle Match

The 7th Annual Competition between the Claffin Guard, Co. C, 5th Regt., and the Claffin Guard Veteran Association was held at the range of the Massachusetts Rifle Association, Walnut Hill, on Saturday, Oct. 12.

The conditions of the match called for ten shots at 200 yds., rifle, Krag. Both teams reported promptly and found the weather conditions perfect. Lieut. Daniels and his active men put up a stiff fight making the best score they have ever made in the competition but Col. Edes and his veterans were too strong for them and won the match by a margin of twenty points, as follows:

Armory Wanted By Militia

To the citizens of Newton:—Attention is respectfully invited to the fact that the Claffin Guard, Company "C", 5th Regt. M. V. M. is seriously and unnecessarily handicapped by being quartered in a building unsuitable in every way for the maintenance of an efficient company.

The drill hall is much too small under present drill regulations; the quarters of officers and enlisted men are inadequate for the transaction of military work under modern methods; there is practically no room for the care and storage of military property and a lack of attractive recreation rooms that the members may secure some enjoyment from their connection with the Militia to counteract the great amount of work and loss of time which under present conditions every militiaman is obliged to devote without compensation.

The fact that this company is practically the only one in the Commonwealth, stationed in a city, and not provided with a modern armory may not be gratifying to its many friends who might reasonably expect the Claffin Guard should have at least the advantages enjoyed by companies located in other cities and towns.

The following figures showing population, assessed valuation and cost of armories erected, or to be erected, in ten cities and towns, having less than 40,000 population are submitted:

City	Population	Ass'd Val.	Armory
Haverhill	37,818	27,418,564	40,000
Malden	39,795	32,988,750	50,000
Gloucester	26,011	21,690,842	65,000
Plymouth	11,119	9,800,938	30,000
Waltham	26,239	23,795,456	45,000
Chelsea	37,289	25,966,425	49,000
Framingham	12,609	9,785,514	40,000
Everett	30,000	23,006,700	36,763
Marlboro	14,073	9,803,330	27,000
Fitchburg	33,026	25,794,168	60,000
Newton	36,827	65,967,040

Section 526 Acts of 1907 provides that any city or town of more than 12,000 population, having stationed therein a company of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia may have a modern armory erected, furnished and maintained by the Commonwealth.

The city may, through the city government, vote to accept the act and designate the cost of the building.

The bonds are to be issued by the Commonwealth, to bear interest of not more than four per cent per annum, which is charged to the city.

The Commonwealth allows and pays to the city four per cent of the cost of the building, or not more than $1200.00, per annum as rental, and in addition provides Heating, Lighting, Janitor Service, Telephone Service and Repairs.

That the proposition is a good one there can be no question; the act having been accepted and armories erected throughout the State and it remains for Newton to get into line and do her part to provide an armory for the Claffin Guard that will be a pride to her citizens.

George F. Guilford, Captain.

The year 1856 saw the beginning of a modest bookstore in the archway leading to the old Marlboro Hotel on Washington Street. This soon became a favorite resort for book buyers, especially those who loved to "browse around" among old and rare volumes. In the late seventies, the old Marlboro Hotel was torn down and the store then and since known as The Archway Bookstore was moved to 365 Washington Street, where it has since been located. In 1880 it came into the possession of the present owners, Messrs. DeWolfe & Fiske, and the business soon grew to large proportions so that Boston's Archway Bookstore became famous throughout the country.

Finding their old quarters entirely inadequate for their extensive business they have taken a lease of the building at 16-20 Franklin Street, a few yards from Washington street, and adjoining the new Subway Station. Here, in a large, well-lighted, handsomely furnished store, Messrs. DeWolfe & Fiske feel justified in claiming the finest display of books in any store east of New York. A novel and attractive feature of the new store is the arrangement of the stock by classification, so that any one interested in a special line of reading will find hundreds of books on every phase of the subject, massed together where they can be easily examined. This plan has been successfully adopted in other cities, but is novel on so extensive a scale in Boston. It is sure to prove a great attraction to book lovers.

The firm will also continue the features which for fifty years has made The Archway Bookstore famous, the display of low-priced books, both new and second-hand, publishers' remainders, odd lots, etc., as well as all the new and standard books, at all prices, as in the past, at the lowest possible point. A cordial invitation is extended to all to call and see the new store and look over the stock. (From the Boston Evening Transcript.)

Mr. Hickox Complains

Oct. 10, 1907.
Supt. of the Newton & Waltham St. Ry. Co., Waltham, Mass.

Dear Sir:—Your car via Craft St., which I understand has been lately instructed to wait for the passengers from the two o'clock train, started off yesterday from Newtonville Square the instant the two o'clock train (which was on time) arrived. Mr. Littlefield, who was with me, by hard running caught up with the car before it had gone more than a hundred yards and requested the conductor to wait for me, as I was also running for it. Your conductor (No. 243), however, turned his back and proceeded to go on. Through Mr. Littlefield's remonstrances, added to the looks of disapprobation of the passengers, he was at last compelled to stop the car about half way between Newtonville Square and Watertown St. where I finally climbed aboard. I asked the conductor why he did not wait and he replied that he had no orders from the company to wait for the passengers from the two o'clock train, adding also that he was a "new man." To Mr. Littlefield he confided that he "forgot all about that train."

Your road has been so much in the habit of ignoring the convenience of passengers that many people have wondered why it is that a road that persistently pursues such policy can retain its charter. Perhaps you can explain.

Yours truly,
(Signed) Wm. Hickox.

Fire Works Burn

A spectacular fire occurred in Auburndale last Friday when the main storehouse of the Homer H. Tilton fireworks company, together with its contents, was destroyed, entailing a loss of about $6000. The owners believe that squirrels caused an explosion that occurred just before the fire broke out by trying to move explosives.

The storehouse was one of a group of one-story wooden buildings of the fireworks plant situated in the rear of 75 Stanford street near the Charles river. An explosion that could be heard for a long distance occurred about 9:30 and residents of the vicinity noticed flames issuing from the building. Within a few minutes the storehouse was in flames. An alarm was sounded from box 321, and aid was also summoned from the Waltham fire department by sending in an alarm from box 114 in that city.

The firemen had hard work getting water onto the fire, the plant being situated on a peninsula extending into the Charles river, the entrance to which is almost wholly surrounded by swamp land. While the firemen were trying to get apparatus near enough to be effective, sky rockets, firecrackers, set pieces and other fireworks began to shoot in every direction. It was impossible to get the steamers near the fire, and it became necessary to fight it with chemical streams and hand extinguishers. The firemen had a stubborn fight, but after more than an hour's work the blaze was under control. The fire lighted up the vicinity brilliantly and a large number of spectators were attracted. At midnight the ruins were still smoldering.

Officers of the company stated that the loss on the building is about $1000. While it is impossible to accurately estimate the loss on the contents the company stated that the contents were worth about $5000. The loss is partly covered by insurance. The fireworks plant has been located here 10 years and this has been the first fire of any consequence in any of its buildings. Recently squirrels had built nests in the main storehouse, and the company believes that the animals were responsible for the explosion that started the fire.

A Young Voter's Dulp

The situation in the politics of the state must appeal with particular force to the young man who is casting his vote for the first time this year. If he is a man true to his state and true to himself he will ponder as to which party he will affiliate with in order that he may do his state the most good and at the same time be exercising the best judgment of a new voter.

The late Governor George D. Robinson, with whose ability as a campaign orator all are familiar, used when of the stump, to address an exceptionally powerful argument to the young or first voters, substantially along this line.

"Young men, you who are about to cast your first vote, and who may be hesitating with which political party to ally yourselves, should remember this: You will not always find everything just to your liking in either organization. You will discover that there are some rasicals in both parties. Each party will sometimes do things that you do not like. You should therefore decide which party on the whole is most in accord with your ideas, which on the whole you would prefer to have administer the business of the state and the nation, and having decided, join this party and stick to it. I claim that the Republican party is better fitted than the Democratic to transact that business and hence I urge you to vote with us."

With the recent spectacle before the eyes of the young voters of the state these words are particularly timely. The young man should choose. Let him contrast the two conventions held in this state, the one of the Republicans at Boston and that of the Democrats at Springfield and array himself with the forces of order and dignity.

What Is A Newspaper

A newspaper is the thing which every person in town knows how to run except the editor. It is what should be an oven for "roasts" on every one except himself, members of your family and a few of your particular friends, for whom it should be a sweet scented bouquet of praise.

It is a promoter of profanity if it is not on the front porch when you get down in the morning, and what you tell the man who works on it isn't fit to go into a decent person's home.

It is what the young man who borrows it from the saloon bar "kicks" about because it contains only one sporting page and which the woman tells her neighbor when she takes it back is not worth subscribing for because it has but one page devoted to fashions and making currant jam.

It is what the merchant threatens to pull his ad. out of because he cannot have the run of the paper and what the old subscriber declares is going to the denmition bonwows because it is getting so that nothing but advertising can get a position in it any more.

It is what you want to see the editor to keep your name out of as soon as you have settled with the police justice on the morning after and to get your name into as soon as the cards are issued two weeks before.

It is what is just too horrid and inquisitive for anything, and "please keep my name out" when the reporter wishes to know about the bridge whist club and which is the mean old sheet that never gets anything right when your name is omitted from "among those present."

It is what no one ever forgets to condemn for its mistakes and never remembers to praise for the good it accomplishes.

It is a subsidized organ when it fails to tell about the millionaire's wife running away with the coachman and a libelous yellow rag when it reports your police court trial for killing your neighbor's rooster.

It is what is difficult to print so as to suit anybody and which would be nothing but eight pages of blank white paper with a headline if it were published so as to suit everybody.

Harry N. Gardner, City Editor Binghamton (N. Y.) Republican.

Another Accident

A through inward bound freight had a narrow escape from meeting with serious accident while running at a fast speed on the main line of the New York Central tracks east of Riverside early Tuesday morning.

The heavily loaded train had just passed the junction at Riverside when a wheel of one of the cars broke. Part of the gear swung under the car, ripping the sleepers on the inward track nearly half way to Auburndale.

The pounding attracted the attention of the train crew. When the train was stopped and the accident discovered the railroad men believed it was by the greatest good fortune that at least several cars had not been derailed.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The interest in this city in the coming state election has been transferred from the gubernatorial to the senatorial contest. The acrid and disgusting tactics of both the Bartlett and Whitney partisans have destroyed whatever respect the citizens of Newton may have had for a Democratic candidate for governor.

But Newton has a peculiar interest in the election of a senator. One of our most popular citizens has been prevailed upon to sacrifice himself on the altar of political duty, and it behooves every Republican to recognize that sacrifice by casting his vote for Mr. Charles S. Dennison. The party is to be congratulated upon the fact that a business man of such large experience can be induced to stand for a political office and to give the state the benefit of his judgment.
Don't forget to vote and to urge your friends to vote for Mr. Dennison.

We trust that depositors in the savings banks of this city will not follow the advertised advice of Mr. Lawson and withdraw their money and become catspaws for speculators.

Politics

Under date of Oct. 7, Mr. George W.
Pratt who is prominently mentioned as a candidate for ward alderman from ward six, resigned as a member of the Republican ward and city committee from that ward.

Reception To New Rector

The parish house of Grace church was well filled Wednesday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock the occasion being a reception tendered to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Laurens MacLure the new rector and his wife.
They received from 8 to 10 and among the prominent clergymen present were Archdeacon Samuel C. Babcock and Mrs. Babcock, Rev. Dr. George Hodges, the dean, and Rev. Doctors Henry S.
Nash, Maximilian L. Kellner and Edward S. Drown of the Cambridge Theological School, Rev. Richard T. Loring, Rev. and Mrs. Adelbert L. Hudson,
Rev. George S. Butters and many other guests from the Newtons, Boston, Waltham and Watertown. Letters of regret were received from Bishop William Lawrence Rev. Alexander Mann, Rev.
John Matteson and others who were unable to be present as they were in attendance at the Episcopal Convention at Richmond. During the evening refreshments were served by the ladies of the parish.

Lend-A-Hand Clubs

At the West Newton Unitarian church last Sunday afternoon and evening the sixth annual meeting of the South Mid-dlessex Federation of Young People's Religious Unions was held. The members of the Junior Parish were the hosts and there was a good attendance. The principal addresses in the afternoon were by Mr. H. G. Arnold, president of the National Young People's Religious Union and Rev. W. H. Parker of Reading.
In the evening Rev. Julian C. Jaynes conducted the reading and prayer exercises and the sermon was by Rev. John M. Wilson of Lexington.

The following named officers were elected for the year: President, Rev. J. M.
Wilson; vice president, Rev. T. B.
Sharpless; secretary, Miss Lillian D.
Brurton; treasurer, A. H. Richardson.

Secretary Pease of Burdett College of Business and Shorthand, 18 Boylston Street, Boston, said recently that the demand for young men and women who are qualified to take up office duties increases each year. The day of apprenticeship is rapidly passing, added Mr.
Pease, as business men no longer are willing to take the time to teach their employees, but want only those who can come prepared to do good work. The favorite course with young women is the Combined which comprises Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Touch Typewriting, and Office Appliance Practice. This course enables them to secure high grade positions, as they are intelligent about the different phases of counting room work. New students can enter Burdett College every Monday morning.

CITY HALL NOTES

Ex-Mayor Fairbanks of Quincy, who is the present auditor of that city, visited City Hall on Monday.

Registration which closed Wednesday night shows an increase of 25 over the present time last year. The registrars added 432 names to the list this autumn, bringing the total registration up to 6375, against 6350 last year.

The Street Department has sent out notices this week requiring property owners to remove gypsy and brown tail moths from their estates before Dec. 1st.

The Finance Committee begins its consideration of the budget of 1908 this evening, in advance of its formal presentation at the meeting of the aldermen on Monday.

City Messenger Joseph D. Wellington quietly observed his 83rd birthday last Tuesday. Mr. Wellington is a native of Troy, N. Y. but has resided in the vicinity of Boston for about sixty years, coming to Newton in 1874. He was chosen city messenger in 1877.

Stanley-Conant

Miss Della Abbie Conant, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wm. Conant of Waban became the bride of Mr.
Newton Fairbanks Stanley of Kingsfield,
Me., last Monday evening. The ceremony took place in the Church of the Good Shepherd at Waban at eight o'clock in the presence of relatives and a few near friends. Rev. James Clement Sharp rector of the church officiated.

The bride's gown was of crepe de chine over white silk and she carried a bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley. She was escorted to the chancel on the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage. Miss Virginia
A. Conant was the maid of honor. She was gown in pink crepe de chine over pink silk and carried a large bunch of Chatenay roses. Mr. Carleton S. Stanley of Newton was the best man and the ushers were Messrs Prescott Warren and Edward M. Hallett of Newton, Donald Sanderburn of Worcester and Herbert W. Conant of Wellesley.

A reception followed at the Conant residence on Moffatt road, Mr. and Mrs.
Stanley being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Conant and Mr. and Mrs.
Isaac Stanley, parents of the groom. The house was effectively decorated with carnations, asparagus and chrysanthemums.

After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs.
Stanley will spend the winter in Newton and will then make their home at Waterville, Me.

Police Salaries

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

Based upon an intimate knowledge of present harmonious and successful operation of the Newton police department it is my opinion that the high standard of efficiency which now obtains can best be further maintained to the general public satisfaction by the granting of the increase of salaries which members of the department desire.

The petition asks that men who have served as regular patrolmen for five years be allowed a 10 per cent advance over their present salaries or an increase from $1095 to $1200.

In this connection it is to be remembered that those who are seeking this raise of pay have been active members for more than ten years and in many cases 15, 20 and 25 years. The duties of patrolmen have been their life's work and that they have stood the test is demonstrated by the fact that they are now in good and regular standing.

The increase, therefore, is not sought upon sentimental grounds or upon the much abused "good fellowship" theory.
Men who have performed what was expected of them and who, further, have placed the Newton department foremost among those of the state in point of general ability, neatness and good behavior must of necessity be men of intelligence.
Newton, we know, demands that of all public servants.

These men, like all others, must make provision for their own and their families' future. Not only that but what employer is there who is not willing to recognize his employees' faithfulness by a slight advance in wages? Further, how are desirable men to be secured for police duty unless they see that the future for them is not empty?

In Newton all witness fees drawn by patrolmen for their attendance at court are paid over to the city treasury. The sum is about $2500 annually. In Boston the money obtained from this same source becomes a part of a fund used to provide for the care of widows and other dependents of deceased police department members.

There are many other reasons but what more is needed than a general acknowledgment that the patrolmen have earned it and that as Boston, Brookline and other Massachusetts cities value the services of their police officers as highly and higher than the Newton policemen now ask, it is not only fair but just and right.

Public Gratitude.

Clubs and Lodges

Mt. Ida Council R. A. had a fraternal visit from a band of "Angels" at its meeting Monday night at Dennison hall.
An enjoyable entertainment followed the business session.

Barn Party

People who were born or brought up in the country and have since lived the greater part of their lives in the city, certainly can appreciate the rare good times they used to have in neighbor Jones' barn, when all the people from the neighboring farms would gather together after the evening chores were done and thoroughly enjoy themselves, from the oldest inhabitants down to the farm boys and milk-maids. In remembrance of these good old times, Halloween Night, Thursday, October 31st, 1907 is to be the date upon which a "Barn Party" as nearly similar to those of yore
as Newton can make it, is to take place.
This affair is to be conducted by the Immanuel Associates and will be held in the spacious barn at 263 Church st., Newton, at eight o'clock. Numerous entertainments such as go with Halloween will be carried out and appropriate refreshments served.

Police Paragraphs

Convicted of assault on an aged woman living in the outskirts of the Newton Centre district, Patrick Conroy, aged 30, a laborer living at 118 Boylston street, Brookline, was sentenced to nine months in the house of correction when arraigned in court Tuesday.

The Brookline police have a warrant charging that Conroy assaulted Mrs.
Frank Snyder, 21 Newton street, Brookline, last Saturday, and it is said the warrant will be served when Conroy completes a term for the affair here.

Mrs. Ann Skelton, an 80-year old woman, the victim of the assault, said that she had been pretty well frightened but had suffered no serious injury when she went onto the witness stand and told a clear story of the trouble which took place last Monday.

The police are searching for Carol Arduino, formerly of 295 Boylston st., Newton Highlands, who is alleged to have severely cut Dominic Delmonte of 396 Boylston street with a razor in the abdomen and leg last Friday night. Two doctors were called to attend Delmonte and he is still in a serious condition. He told the police that Arduino had moved away from the neighborhood Friday morning after they had had an altercation. Delmonte said that Arduino came back about 10 that night and that another altercation occurred.

Reception

The Republican committees of Wards Six and Five have arranged for an informal reception at the Newton Centre Squash Tennis Club, Commonwealth avenue and Chestnut terrace, Newton Centre, next Monday evening from eight till ten o'clock to Congressman Weeks. Lieut. Governor Draper and Mr.
Chas. S. Dennison, republican candidate for senator.

Lord-Craig

Miss Jennie Wallace Craig, daughter of Mrs. Margaret J. Craig was married to Mr. George Edwin Lord of Dorchester, last Wednesday evening, the ceremony taking place at the Craig home 14
West street Newton. Rev. J. T. Stocking, pastor of the Central church, Newtonville, performed the ceremony at eight o'clock, the bridal party standing under a wedding bell, and arch of oak leaves and Japanese blossoms. The bride was gowned in French muslin trimmed with point d'esprit lace, lace medallions and satin ribbon. She carried white chrysanthemums. Miss Isabel W. Craig was the bridesmaid, and wore white and blue French organdie trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of carnations. Mr. John L. Craig was the best man and the Misses Ethel May Craig and Marguerite S.
Craig were the ushers.

A reception followed the ceremony until 9.30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Lord will be at home at 59 Laureate street, Dorchester, after November 1st.

D. A. R.

Last Monday afternoon a pleasant, informal reception was given the members of the Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., by their regent, Mrs. Arthur P. Friend, Prince street, West Newton. Mrs.
George Hutchinson, Miss Fanny B. Allen and Mrs. Arthur G. Hosmer assisted in receiving the members and other guests. As a feature of the afternoon, Miss Van Wagener sang a group of delightful songs and Mrs. Friend said a few words of greeting. Mrs. George H.
Talbot, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. Ellery Peabody and Mrs. Flanders were elected delegates to the annual State conference. Refreshments were served by the daughters of members of the chapter.

Messrs McKenney & Waterbury Co., 181 Franklin, corner Congress, announce that their new goods are ready for inspection and invite all to an exhibition of lighting fixtures, in Gas, Electric and Oil, for homes and public buildings, not equalled in this country, consisting of brackets, chandeliers and reading lamps, with the latest art shade effects.

Cork dust does not go to waste.
Throughout Europe, and especially in Italy, it is used for keeping grapes and other fruits, and nearly all exported grapes are packed in it.

Thirty Years Old

An enjoyable informal reception was held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms in Eliot Hall last Wednesday evening to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the Association. About 150 were present and the project for a new building was received with great enthusiasm. Hon.
Gorham D. Gilman, a staunch friend of the Association started the ball rolling with a check for $100 and expressed a desire altho over eighty years of age, to live to see the building completed.

Edwin O. Childs Jr, chairman of the social committee, presided at the meeting which followed the informal reception. He introduced Mr. Gilman, George C. Dunne, D. Fletcher Barber, Pitt F.
Parker, W. H. Partridge, Fred H.
Tucker, S. M. Sayford, who has recently retired from the presidency, and Pres.
Allan C. Emery, all of whom told interesting stories of the past and present prospects of the association. Music was furnished by an orchestra.

Supposed Murderer Located

After a search lasting since May the police believe the murderer of Lougi Montaba, who was lured to the woods off Beacon street, Newton Centre, May 24, has been located.

An Italian suspect is now under arrest in Middleton, O., and officers have left with extradition papers to bring the prisoner to Newton.

Montaba, the police believe, was lured from his home on Fleet street, Boston, to Newton Centre by three fellow countrymen. The next morning his body was found with several bullet wounds and marks of a blunt instrument. A short distance away a bottle of what appeared to be drugged wine was found.
Montaba was a young man and had worked as a teamster in Boston at the time of the strike last spring. He was married and had one child.

Among Women

The first regular meeting of the

—The Social Study Club will meet with Mrs. Wood on Wednesday. The study of France will be continued with papers by Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Blaisdell and Mrs. Leonard.

—Rev. A. T. Jones is to give a lecture in the near future at the Mt. Zion Baptist Church on "The Great Movement to Accomplish the Federation of the Churches and Religious of the World."

—Mrs. William H. Rand has rented the house 62 Margin street for the Waltham Savings Bank to Francis H. Pluta of Auburndale, also a half of the house 53 Henshaw street for Mrs. McKee to G. W. Stewart of Waltham.

—Congressman Weeks made an address on the Railroad rate bill before the New England Dry-Goods Association at Young's hotel, Boston, Tuesday night and was also a guest at the Needham Men's Club on Monday evening.

—Paymaster Joseph Fyffe U. S. N. and Mrs. Fyffe, on their return from a pleasant sojourn in the White Mountains are spending a few days with his mother at 73 Perkins street before reporting to his station at Newport, R. I.

—The annual reception of the West Newton Women's Alliance will be held in the parlors of the Unitarian church next Thursday afternoon. The topic for the winter's program will be "Hymns and Hymn Writers" and papers will be given by several of the members.

—Mr. A. L. Barbour of Perkins street who has been clerk of the Boston North Baptist Association for 13 years, is now making active efforts toward the reorganization of the four Baptist Associations and uniting them into one. This would co-ordinate the work to be done under a general head.

—Mrs. Annie Cushman, widow of the late Lieut. Commander Charles H. Cushman U. S. Navy, residing with her daughter Mrs. Nannie M. Kimberly at 72 Perkins street, reached her 75th year on Sunday last. The occasion was pleasantly observed in the evening when the families of Mrs. Kimberly and Mrs. Fyffe tendered congratulations.

—A wedding of considerable interest to friends here occurred Tuesday evening at the First church of Christ, Congregational, Unionville, Conn., when Mr. Edward Babson Whittlesey was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Crampton Ayer, daughter of Mrs. Eugenia Crampton Ayer. Mr. Whittlesey formerly made his home with his grandfather Mr. C. M. Whittlesey of Cherry street. He is a graduate from the Lawrence Scientific school and is engaged in engineering work in New York.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Collagan of Webster street, who leave the first of the week for an extended trip to Buffalo, N. Y., and points farther west, were given a surprise party Monday evening by a number of friends among the Newton lodges of Odd Fellows and Odd Ladies. A pleasant part of the evening's program was the presentation of a past noble grand's collar to Mr. Collagan and a past noble grand's jewel to Mrs. Collagan they having held these offices in Newton lodge and Tennyson Rebekah Lodge respectively.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—Coming to Keith's next week is the most elaborate act yet presented in vaudeville. It is known as "The Song Birds" and requires the services of thirty people. It is a travesty on last season's operatic war between Conreid's Metropolitan Opera House and Hammersteins Manhattan Opera House, with words and lyrics by George V. Hobart and music by Victor Herber. William Burress plays the leading role, that of "Oscar Hammershine." A welcome return will be that of Arthur Dunn, the little comedian of "Babes in the Wood" fame. He is to play the sketch "The Messenger Boy," one of vaudeville's merriest skits. Miss Marie Glazier will give him adequate support. Julian Eltinge has an entirely new series of impersonations this season, with which he has scored a great hit in the West. Amelia Summerville, the original "Merry Little Mountain Maid" has developed into one of the cleverest female monologue entertainers on the stage. Donald & Carson, with their droll Scotch sketch, Irving Jones, the real coon singer of real coon songs; the Juggling Burkes, great Indian club jugglers; Carletta, a European performer with a strikingly novel act; the Delmore Sisters, singers and instrumentalists; the DeVoe Trio, Roman ring experts; Sperry and Ray in a bright sketch; Rowland and Dugan, parodists and jesters; Chester Johnson, trick bicyclist, and the Kinetograph's usual quota of new motion pictures will fill out the show.

Tremont Theatre—The advanced vaudeville bills at the Tremont Theatre under its new policy conducted by Klaw & Erlanger, are attracting audiences limited only by the capacity of this popular playhouse. The matinees are rapidly growing in the favor of the ladies and children. The performances are not continuous but are complete in themselves beginning at 2 and 8 o'clock so that patrons can see the whole show which is made of the greatest possible strength in consequence. A really remarkable bill is offered for the coming week. The famous London models return for only one week and Claire Romaine is the only holdover. Among the others in the bill are Lee Harrison and his Broadway girls; Al Shean and Co. in their screaming burlesque on "Quo Vadis"; Cartwell and Harris, singers and dancers, new animated pictures; Prolle's Bijou circus, a huge novelty for the little ones; Valazzi, the world's premier juggler; the Nichols sisters and the funniest of all English pantomimes "The London Fire Brigade" the company consisting of 25 principals and pretty girls in the chorus. Vesta Victoria, one of the most expensive and most artistic of Klaw & Erlanger's foreign importations will soon be seen at the Tremont.

Orpheum Theatre—Determined to maintain its high standard of efficiency the Orpheum management has prepared for the week beginning Monday Oct. 21, another great bill of perfected vaudeville. The sensation of Europe and America, Charming, the fascinating performer on the trapeze, heads the array of talent. On the coming bill is also Rafsin's monkeys, the greatest monkey act on the vaudeville stage. One of the monkeys does an imitation of Charming in her disrobing act, and for the first time these two acts will appear on the same bill next week. America's most popular monologist, James Thornton will be seen on the new program with a brand new lot of songs and stories. Joe Hart's latest spectacular girl act, "The Rain Dears," gorgeously costumed and elaborately staged, is another big feature. Mason and Shannon in their unique creation, "Astrology" by Junie McCree; Bertha Walzing, the comic opera prima-donna; Mr. and Mrs. Allison in their mirth provoker, "Minnie from Minnesota"; and the Sheek Brothers, refined athletic entertainers, are others on the big bill. New moving pictures will be shown by the Kinetograph.

Grand Opera House—"A Child of the Regiment," Charles E. Blaney's latest military drama, will be the attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House next week. It will introduce Miss Vivian Prescott in the role of "Little Major," the pet of the 58th Cavalry U. S. A. and Mr. Walter Wilson as Private Tom Hadley. The play is filled with thrilling climaxes and startling situations. The usual matinees will be given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. At the matinee performance on Thursday Miss Prescott will hold a stage reception and will be pleased to meet her many admirers and friends personally. To everybody attending Miss Prescott will present her latest photograph.

Boston Theatre—Manager Morison of the Boston Theatre has good reason for satisfaction with the success attending the production of Edward E. Kipper's famous pastoral play "Sky Farm" this week. His modest announcement regarding this first presentation of the play by a stock company hardly prepared the audience of this week for the elaborate presentation given in this performance. The original designs for the stage settings which were so highly praised at the time were duplicated for the Boston Theatre production and in spite of the excessive demands attending the presentation of this drama its first performances went as smoothly as many that are seen after weeks of preparation. The members of the company are seen to especial advantage in the principal characters of the play, the extra people enter into the scene of the barn dance in the last act with a spirit of abandon that gives a brilliant ending to the play and all of the details of the several scenes show the careful hand of Director Snader.

Political Comment

Think of the managers of the Springfield convention getting together to revise the tariff. What would happen to the people in such a case.

It may be said now, as it has been well said many times before, that a party that cannot govern itself is not fit to be entrusted with the government of the people.

Henry M. Whitney's attempt to make the tariff an issue in this campaign has been entirely obscured by the spectacle that his party is not able to have a decent convention to nominate candidates, not to speak of legislation regarding such weighty matters as the tariff and its effect upon the prosperity of the people.

It is said of the recent Republican convention that it was "cut and dried." If being conducted in a sober and dignified manner is being cut and dried this certainly was the case. It looks as if the results of the proceedings at Springfield were to be cut by the self-respecting members of party and that the candidates were to be hung up and dried.

The men of Massachusetts who have a pride in the government of its political affairs will see in the present campaign an issue beyond those which have thus far been discussed. This is the issue of sober and sensible conduct of the campaign machinery of the state. The men who have the management of the Democratic party in this state at present, if we are to accept the Springfield convention as a specimen of such management, deserve rebuke even from the members of their own party. The Republican party welcomes a party of honest and decent opposition. The present management of the Democratic party of the state deserves to be ousted and the members of that party should be glad to aid in the work. As a means to this every self-respecting man who has a pride in the state and its high traditions should vote for Guild and Draper.

Auto Gymkhana

Machines scurried around the quarter-mile track backwards while policemen looked on and grinned, automobiles smashed barrels to smithereens and motor cars did many novel stunts in the second annual gymkhana of the Bay State automobile association Saturday afternoon.

The events took place on the Cedar street grounds at Newton Centre, and were watched with much interest by the association members and their friends. James Fortescue was sort of master of ceremonies. He kept busy looking after the details and saw that the program went off smoothly, with the exception of one event that was finally called off because of the lateness of the hour. It was as good as an automobile show to see the various kinds of machines cut up "stunts" when managed by skillful drivers.

The first event was a rather mild contest, but it was one in which it was noticed the policemen took a lively interest. The contestants drove once around the track without watch and with speedometer covered in an effort to drive at a 12-mile an hour pace. To make the course at that clip would have required just 90 seconds. Harry W. Knights in a Pierce-Arrow machine went around in two-thirds of a second more than that space of time and won easily.

How quickly a first class automobilist can stop a car going 15 miles an hour was demonstrated in the second event. While the cars were speeding along the signal to stop was given by a revolver shot. At the same time a bag marked with flour was dropped from the machine, which accurately designated the spot where the car was at the signal. Ralph Coburn brought up a Maxwell car in 18 ft 4 1-2 in.

Cigars and matches figured in the third event. At a signal the contestants started around the track, stopping his car at one table to get a match, at another to get a cigar, light it and speed around the track without letting the cigar go out. Pretty fast time was made until Walter Schmunk got an excellent start away from the cigar stand and did the feat in 58 2-5 s. His machine fairly flew around the quarter mile stretch.

Another novel contest was that in which two rows of barrels were used. Starting from a given point contestants touched the first barrel of one row with the front of their automobiles, the first barrel of the other row with the rear of their machines and so on through both rows. Walter Schmunk did it in 2m 13 1-5 s.

Four machines entered in the race around the track backward. Several machines went around in good time, but when Mr. Schmunk let out his White steamer the car shot around the course at a pace that sent all the boys who had come through the fence running for places of safety. Mr. Schmunk did the quarter mile in 44 3-5 s.

The real fun came when the autoists began running into one row of barrels and then backing into another row, one by one, in an effort to see who could knock them over in the least time. Barrels were sent flying about the field and were broken into kindling. Mr. Schmunk won another first by knocking them over in 1m 40 3-5 s. If a barrel had not stuck under the machine of R. R. Ross and delayed him for 15 or 20 seconds, Mr. Schmunk might not have won so easily.

The games wound up with an exhibition of expert driving, machines being sent at a fast pace through two rows of barrels placed only four inches farther apart than the width of the machines. Ralph Coburn sent his Maxwell through in 17s, touching only one barrel, winning the event. A. A. Knight went through in his Oldsmobile at a slow pace and ticked one barrel, but as the other contestants except Mr. Coburn knocked barrels right and left he won second place.

Besides Mr. Fortescue, who had a general oversight of the games, the officials were the following: Lewis R. Spence referee, J. C. Kerrison, G. W. McNear, C. E. Fay, A. P. Underhill judges, Harry W. Knights clerk of course, C. E. Wheeler asst clerk, F. A. Hinchcliffe starter, L. S. Tyler asst starter, A. A. Knights, G. H. Lowe timers, Frank Crockett scorer.

Sharpeners About

A novel "Himkan" game, the victims of which were business men, has been worked in the past few days by a young man in Newtonville and West Newton who is described as being about 25 years old and particularly well dressed.

The young man, it is alleged, unlawfully secured blank money order slips and presented them to business places after the postoffices here had closed in the evening. It is known that in three instances he collected money on the orders. Two were for $20 each, while with another bogus order he bought a barrel of flour from a Newtonville firm and received $12 in change. The flour was ordered delivered to an address on Watertown street, but when the delivery was made it was found that there was no such address as that which had been given. An investigation started by this grocer led to the discovery of the other cases. Investigation made by the post-office department shows that the money order slips were stolen from a postal station in a Roxbury drug store about a week ago. Postoffice inspectors are on the trail of the young man.

SUNDAY IN NEWTON

Discussed at Recent Meeting of Unitarian Club

Addresses of Rev. J. T. Stocking, Rev. Laurens MacLure, and Rev. J. C. Jaynes

Rev. J. T. Stocking

Ladies and gentlemen: You must know how deeply I appreciate the privilege of being here tonight and of learning from headquarters just how such a men's club as this should be conducted and of listening to the two gentlemen who shall follow me as they shall make perfectly plain, I have no doubt, how Sunday should be observed in the most exemplary manner.

I want to take the first opportunity I have had to extend to Mr. MacLure my personal welcome and the greetings of the community I live in and to give him the heartiest wishes for successful work.

I am a rank outsider, and yet I fancy, coming as I do from an Orthodox church I am not so rank as some Unitarians think Orthodox are, just as I think that the Unitarian people are not so rank as some Orthodox people whom I will not mention, think they are. I venture to say if you should take sermons of twenty different ministers representing twenty different denominations on a given Sunday, men of equal rank, and compare their sermons, you could not label the denomination from which a single sermon proceeded. Such abundant evidence is it that in the real fundamentals of theology we are not very far apart.

Orthodoxy has been defined as proper theological thinking, but this age has given orthodoxy another definition, straight Christian living. Tonight we are all come together in the interest of plain, straight Christian living; we are met together upon one theological platform. Our various creeds do not play a very large part in the practical preaching and teaching of today in any of our churches.

I come tonight as a citizen, not as a minister; not as a resident of another part of the city; I come simply as a citizen of the larger Newton to speak of the observance of Sunday in Newton from a citizen's point of view.

I am going to start from what I suppose is the groundwork of Sunday observance, namely, "The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath." Most people who are afraid to work out for themselves the details of Sunday observance and are afraid to have other people entrusted with working out the details, naturally prefer some ground for the Sabbath which will make those details plain and obligatory; but people who are not afraid to bear the responsibility of working out the details for such a day only feel in the criticism which the Lord passed upon the old ground for Sabbath observance a great, delightful emancipation. If the Sabbath was made for man, then the question is, What will be the best for man? The citizen can ask himself only two questions; first, What will be for my best interest? A man has a body; therefore that physical nature must be cared for, refreshed, inspired, invigorated. He has a mind; the mind must have the cobwebs cleared. If he has only a body and a mind, then it is clear that he has a perfect right to spend Sunday in such a manner as to bring to him the best physical and mental reinvigoration. But we know well that that is not the man; that that is not the most of the man. Every man who has gained a thoughtful manhood knows that the best part of him is the unseen part, the spiritual part and when he neglects the spiritual part he neglects the best thing that God ever gave him. When we look at the life of such a man as Lincoln how quickly we see that. What is it that makes that man tower above us as one of the great mountain peaks of America's range of great men? Was it his sublime patience? Was it his great knowledge of men? That is not it. As he left home at the time of his inauguration a little company was gathered in Springfield to whom he was bidding farewell and he told of the great task that rested on his shoulders, greater than that which had rested on the shoulders of Washington. "Without the assistance of God," he said, "I cannot succeed; with His assistance I cannot fail." It was the religious nature, the spiritual nature of Lincoln that makes him such a commanding figure in American life, in the world life. No man can properly answer this question how he shall observe Sunday until he shall regard himself as akin to the greatest in the world in the possession of a God-like nature. Then how shall one observe Sunday properly unless he shall so observe it that there shall come to him a reinvigoration, a renewal of spiritual force? We cannot say that any one man shall spend his Sunday the way another man shall; it is for every man to seek out the way that shall best minister to his spiritual life. One man will seek to get up on some crag and look up into miles of God's blue; another man will have before him that incomparable book of man which must be the incomparable book of God. Another man will take his child upon his knee—and it is remarkable how near God comes to a man who is looking into the eyes of his child. Another man will seek the sanctuary and will join in the expression of the faith of the ages. If a man shall ask himself, "How shall I best sustain my spiritual life?" then it is clear that he has a right to answer according to what he feels to be his own individual needs; and I would have no right to lay upon him that way of Sunday observance which would seem to me the best—in part, at least—the public worship of God.

But that is not the only question that a man has to ask himself. He is not living alone in the world, he is living with other people and therefore his liberty is curtailed a bit, or rather he finds his larger liberty in his responsibility to other people. The question must be asked "What must I do in order that I can best serve the great brotherhood of man and this great and beautiful community?"

What kind of citizens do we want in Newton? We want men with sound bodies, men of sound minds, who know how to think straight as well as to walk straight, but most of all we want men of commanding integrity, of moral character, of that finest flower of character which is becoming too rare; and the man is not doing the best thing for his city if he fails to do all that he can to promote morality. I feel that a study of history will bear me out when I say that the greatest institution to which men have ever given their time and talents for the furtherance of civilization, morality, reverence and good citizenship is the Christian church. It is not colonization or conquest which has extended the bounds of civilized countries, but conscience which has been educated by the Christian church. The churches are making their mistakes, they are going to make them, because they are human; but they are doing what they can and all they can to keep alive the life and teachings of Jesus Christ. That is what citizenship needs and that is what Newton needs the most of all. No man should look with equanimity upon his failure to do his part in the sustaining of public worship any more than he should look with equanimity upon his failure to do his part at the polls as a voting citizen, because he can never strike the need of life more at its center than when he seeks to keep alive the church and public worship.

Can you imagine Newton without a church? Suppose a great calamity should flatten every one of them, the greatest calamity of all would be the indifference of men, their willingness that there should be no church bell, no baptism, no marriage sanctified by a minister, no public prayer, no voice of priest or prophet, no gathering for the worship of God. Men could not tolerate such a desolation as that. They were not made for it. As long as hearts beat as yours beats and mine beats the church will rise and stand to keep the world from desolation. I feel that the time has come for men to feel as they have never felt the great responsibility that is laid upon them to preserve a masculine Christianity.

I have not spoken at all of golf or tennis or boating or automobiling because I have felt that what we should not do on Sunday is a collateral question compared with what we should do; that when men appreciate the church so as to want to be in the body of worshippers, then the other question will take care of itself. I would like to speak of what Newton owes to the Christian Sabbath, what it has meant to this city that it has had a Sunday devoted to religion, what you owe to the little towns and the Christian homes which have reared many if not most of the best citizens of Newton.

Today I ran across in a little book this dedication:

"To my New England father and mother, whose simple lives of industry and parental sacrifice and trust in the invisible have made possible to me a broader training than theirs, but not a deeper practical sense or truer sense of faith and love, this volume is affectionately dedicated."

That is what we want, the sense of the invisible things that your father and mother and mine have had, that shall lead us to go out to public worship and keep it alive in the community. And when we so feel our duty as citizens that we shall want to strike life at its center, then I feel that we shall want to keep the church open and have public worship at which there shall be gatherings of men and women for the common weal; and when we do that there will be no Sunday question. (Applause.)

Rev. Laurens MacLure

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: I desire first of all to express my appreciation of the invitation to be with you this evening. I cannot honestly say that I have enjoyed my dinner as much as I might under other circumstances. I don't know but this is a well-designed scheme on the part of the Unitarian Club of Newton to give the episcopal parson dyspepsia by inviting him, a stranger, to speak on "Sunday in Newton," which he knows nothing about, and then putting him down before a big dinner and expecting him to eat all the courses and then make his speech. But I hope I shall be able from my abstinence tonight to thwart some of the evil designs of my friends in respect to the dyspepsia, at any rate.

I mentioned in my letter to your president that I knew nothing about Sunday in Newton. I know a little about Sunday and a little about human nature, but I know very little about Newton. I have only been here a short time and the people at Grace Church have kept me so busy that I have not had time to observe how the rest of you behave on Sunday, whether you ride in automobiles or play golf or do these other things that were thrown out in a suggestive way by my brother who preceded me. I hoped as he went on he would give me some light on what the sins of Newton were, but instead he occupied such high and lofty and spiritual ground that I was afraid he was going to say everything I might say, not knowing anything under the sun about Sunday in Newton. I do know something about human nature and I do know something about the value of the Lord's Day to people everywhere, in Newton and everywhere else.

I believe that our Sunday observance, if it is to rest upon the right basis, has got to go back to the constitution of human nature. I do not believe that the fourth commandment as it stands in the Bible is in effect today. It was a Jewish Commandment and it passed away with the Jewish dispensation. The old Jewish Sabbath and the old Puritan Sabbath rested, so far as they referred to authority, on no sufficient grounds. But there is quite enough about authority in God and in the constitution of our nature that God made for all the Sunday that we need. I believe, as nearly all of the early fathers of the Christian church believed, that the Jewish Sabbath had been done away with. I believe that the Christian Apostles and the first disciples took the Lord's Day to be an entirely different thing in its spirit. It was something not less, but far more than the Jewish Sabbath had been. It was not a law of restriction in the doing of certain things; it was a way of spiritual life that was opened up to mankind.

CAMBRIDGE AND WALTHAM

There is one thing in the fourth commandment that stands and will stand forever. You know that there are two versions of the fourth commandment in the Old Testament, in both of which the first words were, "Remember that you set apart a rest day." All the rest is explanation, for in the book of Exodus it goes on to tell that the day should be observed because God created the world after a certain fashion and rested on a certain day. Turn to the book of Deuteronomy and you will find another explanation: Because you were slaves in Egypt, keep a rest day. In Egypt they had to work fourteen or sixteen hours a day seven days in the week, three hundred and sixty-five days in the year and three hundred and sixty-six in leap-year. What does God Almighty according to the spirit of that old book say when the people are led out and delivered from their servile condition? "One day out of seven take a good rest and remember that you were once slaves, and thank God that you are slaves no longer." That brings together the two great things for which the Sabbath stood; it stands for rest, for the necessities of human nature in its bodily aspects and for the necessities of human nature in its spiritual aspects.

I thought very seriously a few years ago in my old pastorate of joining a labor union. I am immensely interested in labor problems and in the whole sociological aspect of the Christian religion. I was held back from it by the consideration that I would probably put myself in a position of having things voted that I did not approve of and perhaps find myself in a very awkward dilemma. But if I had the thing I would have put before those working men and I am amazed that they do not emphasize more in their unions the demand for that rest day. There ought to be no people in this world that are so interested in the rest part of Sunday as the great masses of the working people. If you can get them interested in that as they ought to be a great part of the abuse of the day that have come about will be done away.

On the spiritual side, every man owes his own higher nature a chance. It is incumbent upon him, if he be a rational, sober thinking being, that he put his soul within reach of the influences that make for growth, just as well as his body and his mind. And so this day that is set apart for rest ought to be also a day set apart to the attuning of ourselves with the Infinite, to the putting of ourselves within reach of the means of spiritual growth. If you want a seed to grow you must plant it. If you want the soul, the higher part of you to grow, put it in the reach of growth. The church stands for just that thing; it stands for the fatherhood of God and the common brotherhood of man and the life of charity as it is exemplified for us in our Master and Pathfinder and Way-showers. It is the great social force of uplifting and power. Upon what do our commonwealths rest? They rest upon the recognition of God. The reason that America has accomplished so much is not simply her vast resources, but it is the faith and the fear of God with which many of her people came to these shores. And woe be to the country if we lose that sense. We cannot keep that sense of touch with Almighty God unless we are observant of Sunday and of what Sunday stands for in spiritual things. And the responsibility is on you and me, everyone of us.

There are some people who say they do not need the church and they can get along without it. I suppose they can in some way, but we cannot get along without you. You are put here as a social being. You have your responsibilities for the quickening of the life of the community in which you live, and it is up to you, my friend, and you to put your hand to the plow. The reason we are enjoying the liberties we are in Massachusetts today is because when Paul Revere took his ride in April, 1775, when the farmers heard his message they did not turn over in their beds on that cold April morning and wrap themselves in their coverings and say, "I hope John Smith and William Jones will look after this matter, but it's a pretty cold morning; I think I'll stay where I am." They got out of bed and they found the old musket and the powder horn and that is the reason why the British soldiers went back to Boston on the run with their tongues hanging out of their mouths and why they were besieged there all the next winter by that ill-organized and ragged organization of Massachusetts men until finally they sailed away.

There are some things about Puritanism I do not like. I belong to a church that Puritans did not like very well and we had our mutual disagreements in times past. Although we have come together a great deal more in later times. But as far as the spirit of personal responsibility and personal accountability is concerned, in the moulding of character and the making of a commonwealth and a community, I wish God Almighty would rain down Puritans on this land for about two weeks. (Applause.)

Sunday is for the glory of God, but the glory of God is only advanced in this world by—what? Everything obeys him but man. Nature in all her laws, in the sweep of the planets in their orbits and the stars in their courses is obedient to God. God's glory means the elevation of manhood. There is no other glory of God that is worth talking about. What ever will minister to our upbuilding bodily, mentally and spiritually is for the glory of God and for the good of this community. Let every man and every woman in this community as a part of his responsibilities to himself and his neighbor and his community go to church every Sunday morning. Then in the afternoon play games with your children, go out and have a ride, have social entertainments, get your family together, upbuild yourself on the social and friendly side as much as you please, and God Almighty will smile on you.

I thank you for this opportunity this evening of speaking to you. I am sorry I do not know more about your faults. (Laughter.) I suppose I shall know more about that as the months go by, and then perhaps if I ever have the opportunity I can speak to you more pointedly. (Applause.)

Rev. J. C. Jaynes

Mr. President; Ladies and Gentlemen: These are dull days for the clergy. (Laughter.) Things are getting too peaceful. It seems to be a time when the stir and enthusiasm of denominational enmity have stagnated into denominational fraternity and good will. (Laughter.) There was a time not long ago of glorious church warfare, a time when theological guns protruded from every church window, and to be a minister meant to enlist for battle and to go armed with various dogmatic explosives furnished from the magazines of the divinity school. Why, then such a meeting as we are holding tonight would have been impossible, and if possible it would simply have promised to the expectant audience a most exciting exhibition of a theological Donnybrook Fair. But those exhilarating old days are past and gone and we have nothing left in their place but the monotony of intellectual sympathy and the dullness of brotherly love. (Laughter.) Why, it would be impossible for this audience or any other audience to provoke a really interesting quarrel among us three ministers here on this platform. We love one another too well for that and we are too much alike in our views. Why, we go arm in arm down the street and there is not one in town who can tell which is Orthodox and which is heterodox—and I don't know tonight since I have heard them speak. (Great laughter and applause.) Why, we exchange sermons Sunday after Sunday and our respective congregations are unable to detect any difference. It is true that my Episcopal brother here calls me an old iconoclastic radical or something worse than that and denies the validity of my ordination; and I in turn call him a bigoted young priest steeped in mediaevalism; but we don't mean anything by that (Laughter), certainly no disrespect, and when we use such pretty names we do so simply to show to each other that we have read a little church history and are familiar with the terminology of ecclesiastical controversy. Therefore if tonight you find this discussion somewhat dull and uninteresting it is not because we speakers are dull and uninteresting but because you as well as we are victims of the changed condition of the time.

The expected has happened. I expected to agree with all that was said and I have not been disappointed. I think that I have detected several suggestions of extreme radicalism and long-haired heresy, but they were minor errors of little importance, and I am sure if I should mention them my brothers would be only too willing to retract them.

I quite agree with my brothers when I say that I withdraw from Sunday and the Sabbath also all supernatural and extra-human supports whatever. What sanctions are left? Why, friends, all the sanctions that ever existed; the sanctions of human experience, the sanctions of human life. The institution of a rest day, a sabbath, a holiday, a holy day, grey just as naturally and just as spontaneously out of human life and human society as grew up the institution of marriage or of the home or of the church. They were a religious necessity, a social necessity, an economic necessity. Then during its historic development the rest day gathered around it chiefly religious associations, and that is why it has become so revered by various people through all the generations. And then when religion exalted into prominence the artificial technicalities and put upon them the importance of saving power, then the Sunday observance ramified out into all sorts of burdensome details and became hedged about by points of law. Now we are heirs of the past, and as heirs of the past we have inherited the traditions, the associations and the exactions of a Puritanical Sabbath. But we are also children of the present, and as children of the present we have imbibed new ideas of the universe, new ideas of what constitutes religion, new ideas of personal liberty and of private judgment. Therefore there has come to us a conflict—a conflict of ideas, a conflict that goes deeper than sectarian or institutional prejudice, a conflict between the spirit of the old time and the spirit of the new times. And so we have the Sunday question.

What is our problem? It is to establish a rest day, a holy day, a Sunday that shall meet all the rational demands of modern times. You cannot unmake modern times. You cannot silence the cry of modern times. You cannot take the husks of a dead past and with them satisfy the larger hungers of the modern time. You cannot put the new wine into the old wine skins without risking both the wine and the skins. What we want, then, is a Sunday suitable for modern times, a modern Sunday; not a day of license and unrestraint, but a day where in all religious privileges necessary for the human soul shall be respected and at the same time where there shall be ample room for all reasonable recreation, pleasure and rest. That is a great problem. It is impossible to so adjust any day to all the demands made upon it that there will not be people on the one hand who will think religion is going to the dogs, and on the other hand some people who think that their private rights and liberties are being curtailed by the exactions of the past. But I believe the time is coming when we shall see many of our Sunday perplexities removed. The time is coming when the people can come to some more general understanding by which all the vital sanctities of Sunday shall be preserved and at the same time there shall be full freedom for the exercise of all the varieties of individual taste and interest.

In the meantime there is something for you and me to attend to. First of all we ought to have removed from our statute books all the petty restrictions upon innocent Sunday pursuits. We are living today in the state of Massachusetts under Sunday laws which were woven in the loom of fanaticism. They were repealed long ago by the common sense of the people, but there they still lurk in the books, ready to become weapons in the hands of persecution and theoretically branding their violators as criminals although they may be the very best citizens in the Commonwealth.

Any law that is laughed at and disregarded by the respectable classes is worse than no law at all, for thereby is bred contempt and disrespect for the very seat of authority.

The next worse thing to committing a crime is to manufacture a crime out of harmless human behavior.

In the second place, we should resist every encroachment of unnecessary labor upon the restful privileges of the day. Of course in our modern complex society many activities must continue over Sunday. But greed, money-making schemes, enterprises, competitive labor in all of its various forms and disguises, are continually clamoring for admission, and here it is that the public power ought to step in and doubly bar the gates. For Sunday is the people's day, it is the workingman's day, it is the one day when he is free of toil, and all religious considerations aside we ought to protect him from the despotism of his own occupation, and see that he is secure in the enjoyment of the rights of his own human nature.

Then there is the religious side of the question. Man is fundamentally a religious being. While every man ought to cultivate his higher life on everyday, yet I feel deeply the importance of certain fixed times and occasions when, so to speak, a man can take a spiritual bath and sit down in quiet with his moral and religious ideals. Sociologists agree that Sunday has been of inestimable value in moulding the character and the ethical habits of the people. If that be true we cannot afford to so secularize the day that religion and morals shall be at a disadvantage.

There are two classes of people who are, it seems to me, fanatically interested in this Sunday question. One class believes that Sunday should be used only for religious purposes, and another class believes that it should be employed only for sport and pleasure. The latter class is growing rapidly in number and has much sense and sound argument on its side. It will not do for the strict Sabbatarian to call the golfer an irreverent heathen, and it will not do for the golfer to call the Sabbatarian an antediluvian fossil. That will never settle the question. But we must look to some compromise, to some way of reconciling these conflicting interests, and so far as possible give all fair play. And I for one am ready to welcome what is called the Continental Sunday; that is to say, a day so divided that the morning shall be devoted to the church and to all other chief religious functions, and that the afternoon shall be free for any man to enjoy himself in a rational manner without feeling like a sneak and a law breaker.

I know that that arrangement is full of difficulties; I can see them bristling everywhere and so can you. But I do not know of any other that has not more difficulties, and it really is vastly better than our present wretched mixture of hymn tunes and motor horns. (Laughter.)

What kind of a Sunday do we want in Newton? We want a Sunday that benefits the civic dignity and the moral character of the city. We do not want a turbulent Sunday; we do not want a Puritanical Sunday; we do not want a secularized Sunday; we do not want a Sunday of empty churches. We want a Sunday such as any dozen of you men would choose after considering intelligently and honestly, not your personal whim or your selfish wish, but the highest interests of the community. We want a Sunday which you would choose for your neighborhood, your home; a Sunday in whose moral atmosphere you would want your boys and girls to be reared. It would be a Sunday of religious teaching, of freedom from business routine; a Sunday of joyous and wholesome recreation, a theoretically ideal Sunday. And you can have just such an ideal Sunday if on the 20th of this month you apply your theory. You will get up in the morning and you will make a vow to refrain from silly excuses for not using that Sunday to the highest advantage—all such excuses as you are in the habit of giving your minister and fondly thinking that he believes them. He may be gentleman enough to receive them with an unsuspicious face and apparent credulity but inwardly he is laughing at your lame apology. You will first make this vow and then take your wife and children and go to church. And why? For two clear, crisp reasons. First, because you need the church. Six days in the week you are business machines; on Sunday you need to be reminded that you are spiritual beings and that there are such things as ideals. My friend over there says, "Why, I can get all that just as well at home, with a good book." I submit, gentlemen, that usually that good book is three feet square, consists of about 32 highly sensational pages and was left on his door step by a small boy for five cents. My friend says, "I can get all this under God's blue cathedral dome of the sky." Oh, I am sick and tired of that lovely phrase on the lips of automobilists. (Laughter.)

In the second place, the church needs you. If you believe in the church, then back it up, not with the mouthful of words but with your living example. If you and your family are breathing an atmosphere which has been purified and ennobled by the presence of the church, you are a social parasite unless you are doing your share to promote and maintain the vitality of the church.

What next? Well, there is the home and the good book, the golf course, there is the automobile ride—and if you will call for me I shall be very glad to join you and thus end the daylight hours of an ideal Sunday.

And finally, let me ask, must this ideal Sunday be established and safeguarded by law? Must the policeman come to escort you to church? You are honest in your business not through fear of the penitentiary. Your motives of rectitude go deeper than the fear of the law. In like manner, by the power of precept and example you will stand for a sane, wholesome, physical and spiritual helpful Sunday,—not because the Great and General Court says you must, but because in heart and in head you are perfectly loyal to those great fundamental things of personal character, of public well being. (Applause.)

WHITE HOUSE COFFEE

In 1, 2 and 3 lb. air-tight tin cans only—white, ground or pulverized. Never sold in bulk.

It is the principal table beverage of thousands upon thousands of families who drink it every day of the year and find pleasure and solace in it.

IT SUITS WHEN OTHERS DISAPPOINT.

The reason is very easy to guess—it's because it's the very cream of the coffee crops, without adulteration or admixture to cheapen it.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

One of the interesting features of the budget of 1908 as submitted this week to the aldermen by Mayor Warren is the large increase in the receipts for water and the corresponding increase in the surplus for this department. Over $32,000 will be raised by the present rates of taxation for water purposes beyond the entire expenses of the department for maintenance, sinking fund and interest on the water debt. Part of this will be used for extending the water supply system, the benefits of which will be felt by residents and water consumers of twenty years from now, without the expenditure of one penny by them, as the water consumers of 1908 will pay the entire bill. We have harped so long and so many times on this subject that we fear to weary our readers, but we cannot see the water users taxed 20 per cent more than is necessary without making a feeble protest. If this surplus could be utilized for reducing general taxation it would not be quite so bad, but the Legislature has decreed that water receipts shall be used solely for water purposes and when a surplus is thereby created, a reduction in rates is the only manner in which the taxpayer can reap the benefit or profit of the department. Let the water taker of 1925 pay his share of the cost of the water plant just as the water taker of 1908 is paying his share of the plant which he now enjoys.

The project to commit the city to the erection of an armory for the local militia is meeting with considerable opposition from those who, while favoring the matter in general, fear to place the city in a false position by action at the present time. The statute under which the city is urged to act, takes effect early in December and provides that the Commonwealth shall take over all armories in process of erection at that time and thereafter shall erect not exceeding three in any one year. The question therefore does not concern the erection of an armory, but only as to the time it shall be constructed. To take action at this late hour would place Newton in the position of taking undue advantage of the state, when the Legislature in passing the statute last summer had only in mind such armories as were then under contemplation. It is urged that the dignity of the city, its commanding position in matters of legislation at the State House ought not to be compromised by what might be construed by some as sharp practice on its part. Our influence ought rather to be exerted to obtain one of the three armories to be annually constructed by the state, and for which there would be cordial unanimity from all.

There are many reasons why Mr. Charles S. Dennison should receive every Republican vote at the coming election for senator. In the first place he accepted the nomination from a sheer sense of public duty. This is the typical "Newton idea" as evidenced in the character of our city government, and its extension into the field of state politics should be heartily welcomed. Mr. Dennison does not seek the office. It sought Mr. Dennison long and earnestly before his duty to accept the nomination was made clear. In the second place, Mr. Dennison will bring to the state senate, a wide business experience, a knowledge of large affairs and the shrewd common sense of a successful man. These two factors should receive the careful consideration of every voter, particularly the Republican, who voted for Mr. Vahey last year, and whom we believe will vote for Mr. Dennison next month.

The recent article in the Boston Herald quoting Miss McGill of the Newton High School as stating that 35 pupils in her class had never heard of Faneuil Hall is a gross misrepresentation of what Miss McGill actually did say in a recent address before the New England History Conference. Newton children are not so ignorant of their country's history as the Herald would have its readers believe.

The board of aldermen has done the expected thing in refusing the petition of the call firm for increase of pay. It is the policy of the city to use its spare cash in the fire department for increasing the number of permanent men, with a view to ultimately placing the entire department on that basis.

Hospital Aid Association

A whist and dance, under the auspices of the Newton Hospital Catholic Aid Association, will be held in Bray hall, Newton Centre, this evening. Whist will be played from 8 to 10.30 and dancing will be from 10.30 to 12. Music Kutz's orchestra. The affair is in charge of the officers of the association and such a worthy object should receive liberal patronage from all members and friends.

Among Women

The Fall Meeting of the State Federation will be held tomorrow, Saturday, October 26, at the Town Hall, Milton, by invitation of the Milton Woman's Club. The general topic will be "Education." Miss Jane Brownlee will speak on "Moral Education of Children in Schools," and a discussion will follow. In the afternoon Dr. H. B. Frissell, Principal of Hampton Institute, will speak on the "Hampton Idea of Industrial Training," and fine stereopticon views will be shown. Trains leave South Station for East Milton at 9.29 and every hour thereafter.

Mrs. George F. Lowell, president of the Newton Equal Suffrage League, will entertain the League at her home, 525 Walnut street, Newtonville, on Wednesday evening, October 30, at 7.45. There will be addresses by Mrs. May Alden Ward, on "The Club Idea," and Mr. Henry B. Blackwell on "The Barrier to Woman's Work."

The Review Club of Auburndale began its second year's study of Art on October first. The work this year is a study of painting since 1600, and the papers of the two meetings already held have dealt with the Dutch school.

On Tuesday, October 29, at 10.30 a. m., Miss Emma E. Porter will give a lecture before the club in the Congregational chapel, on painting since 1600 in Italy, Spain, Germany and Belgium.

An admission fee of twenty-five cents will be charged those who are not club members, and all such visitors will be welcome.

The winter's program opened very auspiciously last Thursday morning, with an able lecture by Miss Alice Higgins. Miss Higgins is at the head of the Associated Charities in Boston and she chose for her subject "Opportunities for Volunteer Service in the Charities of a Modern City."

At the regular monthly meeting which will be held Thursday afternoon Oct. 31st, Mrs. Helen Weil will speak on "Rosetti and His Circle." The social and tea to follow this paper will take the form of a reception to new members.

Much interest is manifested in the class work, and the committee have arranged for the following work beginning in Nov. Six embroidery classes under the direction of Mrs. Spaulding. Four talks on "First Aid to the Injured" by Dr. Henry Watters. Six talks on "Architecture" by Miss Emma Porter.

This latter class is to be held at the Newton Centre Reading Room and those not members of the club can procure tickets of Miss Henshaw at the Room, or of Miss Porter. Later in the year the committee have planned for a Shakespeare Class and for a series of Bird Talks.

The next meeting of the Newton Ladies Home Circle will be held Wednesday Oct. 30, in the Pomroy Home, Hovey street, Newton. All members are cordially invited to attend.

Brown-Wood

Miss Gladys Albertina Wood, the daughter of Mr. Edwin S. Wood, a former resident of Newton, was married at her home on Royal street, Watertown, on Oct. 16th to Mr. Remington J. S. Brown of Brooklyn, N. Y. The ceremony took place at eight o'clock in the evening, Rev. F. B. Matthews of Immanuel Baptist church, Newton, officiating.

The bride, a remarkably attractive young lady, was gowned in a white lace robe over white silk, wore the conventional veil and carried white roses. She was given away by her father. The wedding march was played by Miss Flora Whitton of Arlington and solos were sung by Mr. Harry Oaks of Boston. The bridesmaid was Miss Florence M. Brown of Brooklyn, and she was dressed in blue net over blue silk and carried a bouquet of white pinks. Mr. Melbourne E. Wood of Brooklyn was the best man.

A reception followed the ceremony until eleven o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Brown being assisted in receiving their friends, including a large party from New York, by Mr. Walter S. Wood, Mr. Charles S. Bryant, Miss Myrtle Starratt and Mrs. O. R. Newcomb. The house was effectively decorated with palms, ferns, white chrysanthemums and roses. The couple received many beautiful and valuable presents of silver, cut glass, china and furniture.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will take a wedding trip thru New York state and will reside in Brooklyn, N. Y., where they will be at home after Dec. 1st.

Rev. N. C. Maynard will give an address on "The Average Boy." Mr. Maynard has had great success with boys' work and can speak from experience.

Mother's Rest

The annual meeting of the Mothers' Rest Association of Newton Centre, was held on Thursday afternoon Oct. 17th in the Unitarian church parlors. There was a large attendance at the meeting which was opened with a prayer by the Rev. Alfred H. Brown and presided over by the retiring president, Mrs. E. R. Benton.

A variation in the program which consisted mainly of reports, was made by Miss Helen Fellows who rendered very sweetly several vocal selections.

The following annual report of the secretary together with a few added facts will serve to show the present condition of the association.

Since the last annual meeting on Oct. 18th, 1906, the association has travelled a year's distance and we must turn to look back in memory over the road in search of its milestones and turning-points, in order to judge how successful a journey it has been.

It has certainly been a year of progress in many respects.

To realize this we have only to look at the improvements made in the buildings of the Rest that have enabled us to accommodate conveniently 109 mothers and 83 children: We have only to strength of those who took charge of it. Informal reception held at the Rest in June, when many availed themselves of the privilege of inspecting the new and attractive quarters, and to glance at the long list of visitors (300 in number) who have registered there.

We have only to recall the wonderful "Country Circus" which was we all know a severe tax on the patience and But, even as the wheat fields rise again we have only to remember the Sunday afternoon services which have been enjoyed thro the kindness of those who were willing to lend themselves to this good work.

We have only to hear the reports of the various committees who have by dint of faithful and intelligent service, brought about these excellent results. Special attention should be called to the Treasurer's report showing a year of great financial gain.

The "Everett D. Burr Memorial Fund" a reserve fund started this year in memory of the deceased originator and promoter of this charity, has reached the sum of $1,000.00, the Building Fund amounts to $4,032.21, and there is a balance on hand of $742.60, while nearly $10,000.00 has been spent for repairs.

The present year was barely begun when we were confronted by the resignation of our treasurer, Mrs. C. B. Cady who was called away from Newton Centre but were reassured by the acceptance of Mrs. F. A. Mason, who has filled the position so ably.

Scarcely a third of the year had passed when we were thrown into deep grief and mourning by the sudden loss of the Rev. Everett D. Burr, whose face, illumined with the light of courage and confidence in reaching the goal of his and our desires.

But, even as the wheat fields rise again after the beating of the wind against their bearded tops, so we rose and rejoiced once more in the opportunities that he had shown us.

We are congratulated on all sides for having secured such a desirable matron as Miss Parker who has conducted the domestic affairs of the Rest with admirable discretion.

Our sincere thanks are due to Miss Chisholm for the gift of her valuable time and services for a month.

For the efficient, willing and uncompensated services of Dr. P. H. Sylvester, as medical advisor, we must all acknowledge ourselves grateful and for his careful report sent to us at the end of the season.

And now we have come to the parting of the ways and by the expiration of the term of office, we are called upon to give up the respective chairmen of the Transportation and Religious Service committees, Mrs. G. E. B. Putnam and Mrs. G. F. Huntress both of whom have labored long and conscientiously with and for us.

Above all we regret the loss of our president Mrs. E. R. Benton whose wise counsel and tender sympathy have always been ready and under whose guidance we have been carefully led.

We wish to thank all the many friends who have contributed even in the smallest way toward this practical and beautiful charity of ours and beg a continuance of their help and cooperation during the coming season.

The officers for the ensuing year were then chosen as follows:

Board of Managers: President, Mrs. A. C. Badger; 1st vice pres., Mrs. Samuel Ward; 2nd vice pres., Mrs. H. H. Kendall; sec'y, Mrs. S. S. Widger; treas., Mrs. F. A. Mason; auditor, Mrs. E. D. Burr; directors for one year, Mrs. F. A. Mason, Mrs. S. F. Brewer; for two years Mrs. H. R. Luther, Mrs. H. J. Ide; for three years, Mrs. W. H. Swanton, Mrs. C. E. Kelsey.

Tea was served at the close of the business session by members of the association.

Politics

The democratic senatorial convention was held at Natick Thursday evening, Oct. 10th. Hon. James H. Vahey of Watertown, the present senator was unanimously re-nominated and Alderman William J. Doherty of Newton was elected a member of the Democratic state committee.

Dwight C. Morgan

Mr. Dwight C. Morgan, an old and much respected resident of Newton, passed away at the Newton hospital last Sunday after a short illness the result of a shock. Mr. Morgan was born in West Springfield and was 73 years of age. He was formerly an assistant superintendent in the Newton highway department and for many years occupied the position of weigher at the coal yard of Albert Brackett & Son. He was a veteran of the civil war and was a member of Channing Council, Royal Arcanum. Two sons survive him, Messrs Fred. C. Morgan of Newton and J. Warren Morgan of Leeds. Funeral services were held from the residence of his son Mr. F. C. Morgan on Centre street Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. George S. Butters, pastor of the Methodist church. There were floral tributes from Channing Council and from relatives and friends. The bearers were Messrs F. C. Morgan, L. Warren Morgan, Arthur L. Allen and C. D. Jennings. The burial was in Newton Cemetery.

THEATRES

Boston Theatre—The best possible evidence of the merits of the play "Sky Farm" and of its performances by the Boston Theatre Stock Company is found in the fact that the demand for seats to enjoy its performances continues so heavy that Manager Morison has decided to retain the pretty drama of life in the Berkshire Hills as his attraction yet another week. The audiences test the capacity of the big theatre at every performance and show a keen appreciation of the play and the work of the players. It has been decided to follow Sky Farm on Monday November 4 by the long promised production of "The Soudan", a play unfamiliar to the public of today but pleasantly recalled by play patrons of the early nineties. It is a melodrama in five acts and fourteen scenes, dealing with domestic and military life in England and tells an intensely interesting dramatic story which affords splendid opportunities for effective scenes and situations.

Hunnell Club

The first joint whist with the Newton Club was held Monday evening with seven tables in play. The scores were as follows:

Sprague and Berg, plus	6
Marston and Shaw	4
Sawyer and Miller	3 1/2
Snyder and Hall	3 1/2

THE CANADIAN FUR STORE

Canadian Furs at Canadian Prices.

The high quality of Canadian Furs is well known to Americans. A custom's duty of 35 per cent prevents Americans who do not visit Canada from buying Furs there. Our American house, 167 Tremont Street, Boston, will interest American buyers of Canadian furs. Here we receive our supply of raw skins from our own Canadian houses where they are collected direct from the trappers and admitted to the United States duty free in the undressed state.

All garments for our American business are manufactured by skilled American designers and fitters, and in selling direct to the wearer we eliminate intermediate profits.

Owing to its rigorous climate Canada produces the finest furs known to commerce. Silver Fox, Hudson Bay Sable, Mink, Otter, etc., are seen at their best. In dealing direct with us you secure the advantages that flow from a large and influential business following in our own stores in four Canadian cities, and a feeling of security and reliability that is always present when dealing with a house whose reputation has been merited by a constantly increasing patronage extending over a period of forty-two years, and whose products have been awarded five gold medals in different Canadian Expositions.

In comparing prices remember that quality is of first importance. Canadian Furs average 35 to 50 per cent higher grade than those of more temperate climates, because nature produces the quality; the furriers make only the garment, and the dyer's art can make a southern mink to imitate the Canadian article. To insure reliability and value, buy Canadian Furs from Canadian furriers.

Black Lynx Throws and Muffs from $22.50
Mink $28.50
Ladies' Fur Lined Coats $63.00
Men's $75.00

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—Seldom, if ever, has any vaudeville act made so great a hit with the patrons of Keith's Theatre as that scored by "The Song Birds". The manner in which it is presented has much to do with its success, for a better performance than that given by Mr. William Burress and his talented supporting company could not be asked for. Next week will afford the last opportunities of seeing this really remarkable vaudeville feature. Cressy and Dayne are playing a few farewell weeks in vaudeville prior to starting on their starring tour in Mr. Cressy's new play of New England life, "The Wyoming Whoop." Pat Rooney and Marion Bent, in their rapid-fire act, "The Busy Bell Boy", will be welcome visitors. Another big feature will be Gillett's Four-Footed Actors, a troupe of dogs and monkeys in a pantomime sketch that has more laughs in it than any of the kind yet presented. A. O. Duncan, the representative American ventriloquist, whose talk is always up-to-date; the Allivotti Troubadours, a violinist and a guitarist in a remarkably high class turn; Harry Brown, the writer and singer of "coon" songs who has just returned from a successful European engagement, and Asra, the juggling billiardist, will all have prominent places on the program. Ruby Raymond and Chester and Jones, in a neat dancing act; McNamee, the clay modeller; Dudley and Chesley, in a vocal comedietta; Rado and Bertman, acrobatic skitists, and the Kinetograph will complete the show.

Orpheum—For the week beginning Monday, Oct. 28, a bill rich in novelties and replete with features has been prepared. Maggie Clute, known to every theatregoer young or old as "The Irish Queen" heads the array of artists. Fred Bond and Fremont Benton head a company of comedians who will present the big laughing act "Handkerchief No. 15." Another big Boston favorite, jolly Fanny Rice, returns next week with her mimic miniature stage, an act familiar to all amusement seekers, but which will be presented this time with an entirely new dress of material. The world famed Dunedin Troupe will be seen in their marvelous acrobatic sketch bicycle act. Will M. Cressy's funniest vaudeville sketch "The Sailor and the horse" will be offered by Harry La Rose and company. Among the other entertainers will be the following: The Colby Family in their singing and dancing skit "Home Sweet Home" in which pathos and humor are charmingly blended; Cooper and Robinson, the internationally famous comedians in their latest offering "A Friend of Mine"; Bellelaire and Kramer, the world renowned athletes and exponents of physical culture and the Kinetograph showing new moving pictures.

Political Comment

The Lowell Mail, in referring to Henry M. Whitney's new issue of his candidacy as a means of saving the dignity of the state, well says that the state is in no danger and requires no redemption, it is only the Democratic party that is disgraced. The state is not to be redeemed by voting for Mr. Whitney, but the most effective rebuke that could be administered to the Democratic high-binders would be the piling up of an unprecedented majority for Guild and Draper.

The North Adams Transcript remarks that Republicans believe in tariff for protection, but the Democrats rely on the police.

We cannot reason out why any Republican should feel it incumbent upon himself to turn Democrat even "for once in his life" in order to take part in a Democratic scuffle about a Democratic convention. What business has a Republican with a Democratic factional row and what should he care about it? If a man really wants to rebuke the high handed proceedings at the Democratic convention the only way for him to do so sensibly is to make the vote for Governor Guild so large that it will carry the rebuke of the whole state to those who are accused of political brigandage and be sufficient warning to them that the decent people of the state will see to it that party defeat will surely follow the introduction of such methods into deliberative assemblies. It is a queer sort of Republicanism which would prompt a man to jump out of his party lines in order to pull factional chestnuts out of the Democratic fire; a proceeding as absurd and silly as it would be essentially disloyal. Just why the Republicans of the state should endorse the Democratic party through Mr. Whitney, just because the latter may have been beaten out of his rights by a faction of his own party does not appear to us.

If the Democrats of the state are to rebuke the present management of their own party can they do it in any more effective way than to register a protest by refusing to vote for either one of the candidates who are presenting themselves under the label of the Democracy.

Lieut. Gov. Draper Here

Lieutenant Governor Eben S. Draper was the guest of honor at a dinner given at the Newton Club last Monday evening by Mr. Wm. M. Flanders. Ex-congressman Samuel L. Powers was the toastmaster and was in his best vein, genially roasting most of the gentlemen present with wit and satire. Speeches were made by Mr. Draper, Congressman John W. Weeks and Mr. Charles S. Dennison, republican candidate for senator. Seated at the table were Mayor E. W. Warren, Hon. Seward W. Jones of the Governor's Council, Representatives Garcelon, Bishop and Lothrop, Alderman B. S. Palmer, Jas. Richard Carter, Dwight Chester, G. W. Brown, W. B. Merrill, L. R. Speare, Sydney Harwood, Chas. E. Hatfield, A. E. Alvord, Frank R. Moore and other prominent residents of this city.

The dinner preceded an informal reception which had been arranged at the Newton Centre Squash Tennis Clubhouse on Chestnut terrace, Newton Centre, at eight o'clock that evening. The affair was in the hands of the Republican committees of wards 5 and 6 and the guests were Congressman Weeks, Lieut. Gov. Draper and Mr. Dennison, and invitations had been extended to the republicans of wards five and six. Preceding the speech making the clubhouse rang with the merry strains of popular music, with Mr. Waldron H. Rand Jr. presiding at the piano in his own inimitable style and General J. G. White and Mr. S. A. Shannon leading the singing. Mr. A. E. Alvord presided and short addresses were made by Mr. Weeks, Mr. Draper, Mr. Dennison, Representatives Bishop and Garcelon and Councillor Jones. Among those present were noted Col. E. H. Haskell, C. E. Kelsey, A. K. Pratt, G. W. Pratt, B. P. Gray, F. H. Hovey, John Ward, D. N. B. Coffin, Joseph Loring, Dr. W. P. Cooke, Samuel Ward, Arthur Muldoon, Col. W. L. Sandborn, Col. M. E. Cobb, R. F. Alvord, Henry Barber, G. A. Burdett, Chas. B. Gordon, Chas. Sawin, S. H. Greene, H. J. Ide, A. F. Brewer, Arthur Rayner, John Barry, E. B. Stratton, C. F. Johnson Jr., G. H. Stevens, Dr. C. H. Newhall, T. J. Sullivan, Herbert Lane, Wm. E. Parker, E. A. Brown, John Temperley, A. L. Ball, D. A. Ambrose, C. M. Mumford, H. R. Havens, F. A. Gardiner and many others.

New students who intend to begin work at Burdett College of Business and Shorthand, 18 Boylston street, Boston for the winter term which will commence on Monday, November 4, should notify the Secretary as soon as possible and seating room will be reserved for them.

Examinations For Annapolis

Congressman John W. Weeks has arranged for a competitive examination for appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis for a vacancy to take place next June. The physical examination will be held at the Newton High School, Newtonville, on Saturday, November 2nd at nine o'clock, in charge of Dr. H. W. Thayer of Newtonville. The mental examination will be held in the Newton High School in charge of Mr. C. D. Meserve of the Newton High School and Mr. John C. Packard of the Brookline High School. This examination will take place Friday afternoon Nov. 8 and cover U. S. History, arithmetic, algebra, grammar and spelling equal to the standing of the first year High School pupils. Lads between 16 and 20 years of age, residing in the 12th Congressional district are eligible for this examination and should present themselves at the time above stated for the physical examination. A pamphlet containing the details can be obtained by addressing Congressman Weeks at 53 State St., Boston. One candidate and three alternates will be appointed as the result of this examination and must pass the entrance examination held by the Naval Academy next spring.

While the matter is not definitely settled it is possible that Congressman Weeks may select a second candidate to fill the vacancy caused by the death, last Friday, of Midshipman E. Carlton Howe of Millis who was appointed to Annapolis last year by Mr. Weeks. If this is the case, the coming examination will furnish opportunity for two appointments.

We notice in the afternoon edition of the Boston Herald of the 15th, and the Boston Journal of the 16th, Mrs. Renold Wolff flying trips to New York, accompanied by a Boston Veterinarian, to save the life of her pet toy Spaniel. Dr. J. W. Tobin, 332 Newbury Street, Boston, went to New York and successfully performed the delicate operation necessary to save the life of this tiny Chinese Spaniel, Dr. Tobin is becoming widely known for his success in surgery, making a specialty of operations on all animals.

Dean-Eddy

One of the prettiest weddings of the autumn season was that of Miss Marion Eddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb F. Eddy to Mr. Robert A. Dean of Fall River a well known lawyer and a graduate of Harvard Law School 1905, the ceremony taking place last Thursday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock at the West Newton Congregational church. The attendance at the church, which was decorated with tall palms and potted plants, as well as at the bride's home 400 Cherry street, where the reception was held later, was large and representative including guests from the Newtons, Boston, Fall River, Wellesley and surrounding towns. Rev. Dr. Theodore P. Prudden, a former pastor of the church, officiated and the bride was given away by her father. She wore a handsome gown of white lace with tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor was her sister Miss Bessie Eddy who wore pink marquisette, a pink picture hat and carried pink roses, while the bridesmaids the Misses Abigail Parsons and Louise Parsons of New York and M. Eleanor Eddy of Fall River, cousins of the bride, Bertha, Katherine and Ruth Eddy, her sisters, wore white marquisette trimmed with white satin folds with lace, white satin hats and also carried pink roses. The best man was Mr. Arley Beeber Parsons of Washington D. C., and the ushers Messrs Morton LeBaron Church of Taunton, Clifford R. Eddy of West Newton and Thomas Almy, Harry P. Brown, Israel Brayton and M. Richard Brown of Fall River. At the reception Mr. and Mrs. Dean were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Eddy, parents of the bride and Mrs. Rachel A. Dean of Fall River the groom's mother. Mrs. Eddy wore black lace over white and Mrs. Dean, stone grey silk with white lace. The house decorations were chrysanthemums and smilax with palms, while in the parlor, behind the receiving party, was a canopy of southern smilax. A musical program was rendered by O'Dells orchestra of Boston. A profusion of wedding presents were received. The gifts of the bride to her maid of honor and bridesmaids were gold hat pins and that of the groom to the best man and ushers, dragon scarf pins with pearls. After a wedding trip to Lake Placid Mr. and Mrs. Dean will reside at 121 Rock street, Fall River, where they will be at home after December 1st.

The Cost Of Living

People talk of the cost of living, which just now is inclined to score new records, as if it were a fixed, invariable thing, something akin to "the iron law of wages." It is no such thing. It varies from day to day and from season to season. It is always subject to the revising will of the individual.

The individual has a large option among articles of consumption. He may buy more or less as the prices range up or down. Within good limits he has the option not to buy, when prices seem unnaturally high. It matters not at all, for instance, to the man whose clothes are in good condition that the price of cloth is high. He can wait. Moreover, there is sometimes as much difference in the prices of staple articles as sold at different places, or at the beginning or end of a season, as there is in the prices of theatre tickets as sold in a cigar store, on the sidewalk or at the box office, or as sold for orchestra, gallery or family circle, albeit they entitle you to witness the same show.

Our system of selling goods is based on competitive intelligence. If the purchaser shows a similar intelligence he is not at the mercy of any increases in the "cost of living" so called. He adapts himself instinctively to the adjustments called for by the change of seasons; he does not purchase strawberries in mid-winter. He may adapt himself equally well, if he will, to the ascent or descent of the prices of goods and provisions in obedience to other influences than wind and weather.

—One of the most enjoyable gatherings of last week was at the "Harvest Supper" at the M. E. church on Thursday evening. There was a large gathering who enjoyed a bountiful harvest supper, among the goodies being a "New England Boiled Dinner", baked beans, brown bread, pumpkin, mince, apple and other pies, doughnuts, same as mother used to make, etc., etc., and with a good strong cup of coffee, it was good enough to satisfy the hungry ones who were present. The tables were decorated with Jack O' Lanterns on each end made from pumpkins, jardiniere made of cabbages, filled with flowers, and tall fancy dishes filled with tempting fruit. The pretty young ladies with their white dresses, jaunty caps with bright red bows, who waited on the tables so pleasantly, made the occasion most enjoyable. After supper the children were entertained with games etc., while the older ones were amused by making candy, popping corn, making cornballs, by the dozens. Ten o'clock came only too early to many, when we had to bid good night to each other after having a most enjoyable evening long to be remembered.

SCHOOL BOARD

The School Committee met on Wednesday evening with Mr. Gorham presiding.

The salaries of many of the janitors and engineers were increased in accordance with a new schedule of salaries adopted by the committee to take effect Nov. 1.

Meetings were assigned for Nov. 20 and Dec. 18th.

Democratic Rally

The Democrats held a rally at Mague hall, West Newton, Wednesday evening at which the speakers were Mr. Henry M. Whitney, candidate for governor, Mr. Geo. A. Schofield, candidate for lieutenant governor, Congressman John A. Sullivan and Senator James H. Vahey. Alderman William J. Doherty, chairman of the city committee presided. Previous to the speaking a parade was formed at Nonantum square, Newton and headed by the Hibernian fire and drum corps marched thru Nonantum to West Newton.

Senator James H. Vahey received an ovation. He made some interesting references to the senatorial contest of the 1st Middlesex district, in which he is opposed by Charles S. Dennis of this city. He said: "A man named Garcelon who used to be a lobbyist before he became representative started several months ago to find an opponent to me. A meeting of men largely interested in legislation was held and they got a tag man (Dennis) as the only person they could put the nomination up to. They persuaded him he could be elected. I invited Dennis to discuss with me in Newton or any town in the district my record. Tonight I received a reply stating that even should he feel inclined to do so he would be unable because of previous engagements. Dennis must be entirely frank and tell the people how he stands or he must duck. If he will give Congressman Weeks or Mr. Garcelon permission to represent him I will accept the substitute and meet him in a public discussion." Senator Vahey said the only bill Newton was interested in the past year was that regarding freight transportation on electric lines. He stated he consulted Mayor Warren and City Solicitor Slocum, who asked him to oppose the measure, and that the three republican representatives from Newton voted for the bill. "I was the only official representative of the city and when the republican representatives learned of it they frothed at the mouth." He said that unless he was greatly mistaken the democrats will put the "tag" on Mr. Dennis himself.

The Interdenominational Mission Study Institute under the auspices of the Young People's Missionary Union of Greater Boston will be held in the Phillips Congregational church, Watertown, Tuesday, October 29 afternoon session at 3 and evening session at 7.30 o'clock.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

The regular meeting of the aldermen Monday evening at City Hall was attended by President Carter, Aldermen Bacon, Bosson, Burr, Cabot, Clarke, Condrin, Converse, Day, Doherty, Holmes, Jones, Lyons, Palmer, Stone, Underwood, Webster, Weston and White.

Hearings were held on the proposed poles of the Telephone Co. on Laurel st and for attachments on Union st, also on taking land for sewer in Gannon court, as which no one appeared.

At the hearing on taking of land for sewer in North street Thos. Gahan said they didn't need the sewer and could not afford the assessments. W. B. Coleman said that each abutor had a large piece of land and a sewer was not needed. J. D. McCarthy said it was a good high street and a healthy place, James Coleman Jr., W. J. Walsh and J. J. McCarthy also objected, and the remonstrance of McCarthy et al was placed on file.

At the hearings on concrete sidewalks on Auburndale ave, Camden road, Wolcott and Rowe streets, Mr. E. A. Robinson said there were many present who favored this work. About 90 per cent of the abutors had signed leaving only 10 per cent whose sentiments were not known. The Camden road sidewalk is unanimous, all having signed. Michael Fitzsimmons objected to the sidewalk on Rowe street. Mr. F. M. Harrison said that Fitzsimmons had a lease of his property which required him to pay for the sidewalk, but as they thought it might be a burden to him, the neighbors were prepared to pay his assessment with a subscription of $10 from Fitzsimmons. Mr. Fitzsimmons was agreeable to this offer if placed in writing.

Alderman Lyons said there were three parties on Rowe street with 700 feet frontage who have not signed. Mr. Fitzsimmons lease was evidently signed without his full knowledge. Mr. Robinson explained that he had full power of attorney in the Crane property which Mr. Fitzsimmons had leased and that the lease had been read to Fitzsimmons in his office before it was signed. A letter was filed from W. F. Soule relative to the matter and the hearing closed.

On the proposed removal of trees on Summer street Henry McGrady spoke in remonstrance saying they were nice trees and removal would make the street look barren. Mr. P. E. Linnehan also objected and the hearing closed.

Mayor Warren submitted the requests of the departments for appropriations for 1908 with his recommendations thereon and it was referred to the Finance Committee. The budget is given in detail in another column.

The request of the Mayor that the Boulevard Construction account should be closed and its balance covered in to the treasury was also referred.

Notice of desertion of George R. Griffin from the U. S. Navy was received and filed.

Petitions of George J. Hugo and Geo. W. Bush for licenses as public weighers, of Geo. Beck to move building on Parker street, and of Walter Burns for a wagon license were granted.

Petitions of Moore et al on Dickerman road and of French et al on Harrison st, for concrete sidewalks under betterment act, of Wm. P. Matthes for wagon license, of Patrick Costigan relative to injuries received March 4th, of Sarah Platten for rebate of junk license fee of late husband, of Laura M. Wingate for sewer in Seminary avenue, of Weherell et al for sewer in Hawthorne ave, and of Charles F. Osborne asst inspector of wires for $1500 salary, were referred.

Hearings were ordered for Nov. 11 on petition Mrs. A. B. Chapin for removal of tree on Beacon st, and of Louis S. Ross for license to sell gasoline, of Mrs. B. I. Leeds for removal of tree on Bennington st, E. M. Hallett for removal of tree on Centre st and of the Telephone Co. for poles on St. James st.

On recommendation of Committees, hearings were assigned on Nov. 11 for laying concrete sidewalks under the betterment act on Harrison st and Dickerman road, for removal of trees on Rowe terrace and on Beacon st, authorizing the levying of betterment assessments on Cook st, Harrison st, and Dickerman road for street construction and levying betterment assessments for sidewalks laid on Nehoiden road, Irvington st., Bellevue st., Glenwood ave, Norman rd., Cypress st and Sewall st, granting $20,435.21 for city expenses to Nov. 15, making transfers to and appropriating $1500 additional for sidewalks, transferring $157 to City Messenger incidentals; appropriating $1300 additional for Maintenance Public Property, $1000 additional for Poor Out of Almshouse Expenses; appropriating $25,000 for extension of the water supply; and granting Telephone Co pole locations on Glenwood ave, Alerton road, relocations on Concord st, attachments on Montfort rd, Centre st, and Pleasant st, Gas Co. attachments on Ward st, Fuller st., Beacon and Woodward sts, Brookside ave and pole locations on Alchemarle road and attachments to the Newton Street Railway Co on Crafts and Washington sts.

On recommendation of the license committee, licenses were granted James Brickett as Common Victualler, S. H. MacDonald as Common Victualler, W. E. Tomlinson to sell denatured alcohol, and a minor's license to Walter E.

The Nesmith Freak Shoe

The Nesmith Freak Shoe turns misery into absolute foot comfort. It is the only FREAK SHOE which has been a complete success. Made over a last which is the exact counterpart of the foot. Always roomy, restful, reliable.

Men's Shoes,
$4.00 to $10.00.

Ladies' Shoes,
$3.50 to $7.50.

An unblemished foot is as rare as a perfect hand. Yet people don't inherit deformed feet. Corns, Bunions, and the like are caused by wearing ill-fitting shoes.

How to Burn my Coal

My coal has such a strong and lasting body that it doesn't take much to make a hot fire, and some of it will not be entirely consumed in the first fire; but don't throw any of it away.

IT WILL ALL BURN

If you give it a second chance. Its quality is so good that there is almost no stone or slate and only a comparatively small ash.

Orders were adopted taking land for sewers, and authorizing sewer construction in Thomas street, and authorizing concrete sidewalks under the betterment act on Auburndale ave, Wolcott st and Rowe street, Alderman Lyons voting against the Rowe street order.

An order relative to new armory at an estimated cost of $55,000 was referred to the Public Works Committee, and the board adjourned until Nov. 11th.

Silver Wedding

A most enjoyable occasion was the Silver Wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Morton which they held at their home 109 Galen street, Saturday the 19th afternoon and evening, surrounded by their six children and about 50 relatives, some coming from New York and Connecticut for the occasion. Telegrams of congratulation were read during the day and the couple received many beautiful presents.

The man who asked the B. & A. ticket seller for "two chances for Boston" deserves a front place in the ranks of American humorists.
